

ALDERMEN ADOPT A RESOLUTION OPPOSING 10 CENT TROLLEY FARE

Corporation Counsel Gill is Instructed to Take Matter Up with Public Service Commission—Attorney F. C. Merritt Says Taxpayers' Association Will Oppose Granting of Increased Fare.

While the members of the city's common council in 1918 were in favor of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company receiving an increased trolley fare, the aldermen of this year's common council are strongly opposed to any further increase in the amount of trolley fares in Kingston, and at the regular monthly meeting held Tuesday evening adopted a resolution to that effect.

Attorney Francis C. Merritt, of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association, was present at the meeting and asked for the privilege of the floor, which was granted. He said that the Taxpayers' Association was opposed to an increased trolley fare and that he would appear before the public service commission at Albany on the day of the hearing to oppose the granting of the petition. He believed that the Taxpayers' Association should be backed up with the support of the common council and asked that the aldermen adopt a resolution opposing the granting of the petition of the trolley company.

"System is a Bird." "We have a trolley system that is a bird," said Alderman Ralph Mann, as he arose to his feet. "They have the nerve to ask for a ten cent fare but they might as well ask for a dollar. Two years ago when I voted for the increase in trolley fares I voted under the impression that it was for the motormen and conductors getting an increase in pay, but gentlemen, if I had to do it all over again the trolley road would still be getting but a nickel for fare."

Martin's Resolution. Alderman William B. Martin, who had filed a resolution with City Clerk Doremus at the opening of the session, asked that it be read. The resolution follows:

Resolved, that we, the members of the common council of the city of Kingston, N. Y., on behalf of the citizens of said city, wish to most emphatically go on record as opposed to any increase in fares whatsoever being granted to the Kingston Consolidated Railway Company of Kingston, N. Y., by the public service commission, second department, in its application now before said public service commission, and it is further

Resolved, that the corporation counsel of the city of Kingston, N. Y., be and he hereby is, authorized, empowered and directed to appear in person before the said public service commission when the application of the Kingston Consolidated Railway Company of said city for an increase in fares is to be acted upon at Albany, N. Y., and to use every and all means within his power to prevent the said Kingston Consolidated Railway Company from succeeding in its attempt to force from the pockets of the citizens of Kingston, N. Y., an unwarranted increase in trolley fares, and it is further

Resolved, that the corporation counsel of said city bring to the attention of said public service commission the many courtesies shown the said railway company by the officials of said city and its citizens in the past several years, including the maintenance of Kingston Point Park for four years by the said city and for which said railway company was not asked by said city to pay anything toward its operation; the settlement by said railway company for paying two feet outside of trolley tracks for $6,000, when it actually cost the said city $9,834.85; the removal of ice and snow from the tracks of said railway company by the street department of said city at a mere cost of one-third of said amount, whereas one-half of said amount would have been a fair charge; and it is further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the said public service commission before the date set for said hearing of said application, and that the city clerk be so directed to forward the same.

Unanimously Adopted. The Martin resolution was unanimously adopted.

Other matters taken up at the session will be found elsewhere.

GREENE WANTS TAX ON GASOLINE

Would Provide For Maintenance of Roads He Says—Also on Billboards—Such Bills Have Been Balked Before.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Dec. 5.—Imposition of a tax on gasoline and outdoor advertising would provide a more even distribution of the cost of maintaining and constructing state highways, according to Col. Frederick Stuart Greene, state superintendent of public works.

Such a program would create an annual fund of $20,000,000 for the improvement of the state's highway system and would make unnecessary any appropriations by the Legislature except for the construction of new roads, in the opinion of Col. Greene.

It is understood measures will be introduced early in the next session of the Legislature calling for a tax on gasoline and outdoor advertising. This, however, will not be the first time that such bills have been introduced.

Automobile clubs from all parts of the state last year vigorously opposed a bill to tax gasoline. That measure would have had the dealers pay the tax, but representatives of the auto clubs claimed the dealers would see to it that the tax, whatever it might be, would be passed along to the car owners.

An attempt has been made regularly for the last few sessions of the Legislature to pass a bill calling for a tax on outdoor advertising, but the measure always has come down to defeat either in the Senate or the Assembly.

Col. Greene believes a tax of one cent a gallon on gas would take care of the highways needs of the state so far as repairs are concerned. He says no one is using the highways more these days than the motorists, and does not believe, at least in many instances, that they are paying their just share in keeping the roads in good condition.

It is understood Col. Greene will endeavor to have Gov. Smith recommend a tax on gasoline in his annual message to the lawmakers. It is doubted at the Capitol, however, that the governor will make such a recommendation.

HUNGRY TWO DAYS; GIRL COLLAPSES IN N. Y.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 5.—Not having eaten for two days, pretty 19 years old Nanette Prevost, fell unconscious on Broadway early today.

The girl told a strange broken story. She had been visiting in Denver, Colorado, she said. Arriving in New York, without money, she was so exhausted she could not reach her father's home in Brooklyn.

"I am starving to death," she declared and lapsed into unconsciousness.

Police found that Miss Prevost had been in New York at least two days. She spent Monday night in a Y. W. C. A.

Her Brooklyn address and the name of Miss Edith Docherty, a nurse at the Municipal hospital, Philadelphia, were found in her pocketbook.

MACREADY WILL TRY FOR ALTITUDE RECORD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Dec. 5.—An attempt to recapture the altitude record recently won by Sadi Leconte, the French flyer, will be made by Lieutenant John A. MacReady, of the Army air service, on the first day that presents favorable weather conditions, it was announced at the war department today.

Incidentally he will put to test a new super-charger invented by Dr. S. A. Moss, a device enabling an aviation engine to function at sea level efficiency in the rarified atmosphere of high altitudes.

Lecture on Japan.

Miss Olivia H. Lawrence of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, will give a stereoscopic lecture on Japan, in the Sunday school room of the Fair Street Reformed Church, on Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society. A silver offering will be received. Collectors are asked to report at this time.

LEAD DISCLOSED IN ROTHENBERG CASE

Grand Jury Hears of Woman Who Habitually Tied Boys Hands with Rags Such as Were Used to Strangle Him.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Catskill, N. Y., Dec. 5.—The charge that a woman suspect now under surveillance during the grand jury inquiry into the murder of seven year old Howard Rothenberg, was in the habit of punishing the child by tying his hands with rags such as were used by the person who killed him was made before the investigating body today by Mrs. Henrietta Baritaud, of White Plains, N. Y.

Mrs. Baritaud was a guest at the summer boarding house in Windham last August where the child was stopping with his mother, Mrs. Charles Rothenberg, his aunt, Mrs. Esther Litt, and his nurse, Anna Sobin.

The slain youth, Mrs. Baritaud told the jury, angered the woman suspect who grabbed Howard and despite his struggles tied his hands with rags. Previous testimony by a minister of Windham also implicated the woman. The clergyman stated he had seen the suspect hold her hand over the mouth of the boy and slap him on a street in Windham last summer.

It is generally reported that the grand jury will end its probe either tomorrow or Friday with the voting of an indictment naming at least one person, and possibly three.

NEWB'N WRITER'S ALL-DUSO TEAM

Picks O'Reilly as Guard and McLane, Tackle, From Local Grid Team—Places Carroll and Goldberg on Second Team—Gives Places to Four Newburgh Players.

A sports writer of Newburgh has picked an all-Duso eleven. Two local high school players appear on the first team and two on the second squad. The following is what he has to say in regard to the local players and his lineup:

"O'Reilly, captain of the Kingston team, guard. The work of this player was the best possible to be expected from a guard. His huge bulk could be seen many times, opening up holes in the opposing line on the offense, while nothing short of a locomotive seemed big enough to move him on the defense.

"There is no doubt in anyone's mind that the remaining tackle should go to McLane of Kingston. Having played on the Varsity for two years, this man was the stonewall of the Maroon and White's defense this season and also helped their offensive work materially by opening up huge holes on off-tackle plays."

First Team—Perrino (M), end; Kreisel (N), tackle; O'Reilly (K), guard; Kilmartin (N), center; Seelye (M), guard; McLane (K), tackle; Dunphy (N), end; Swenson (P), quarterback; Veraldi (M), halfback; Lampach (N), halfback; Campbell (P), fullback.

Second Team—McCarthy (P. J.), end; Palmer (P), tackle; Weeks (N), guard; Goff (M), center; Shanahan (P), guard; McNamee (M), tackle; Carroll (K), end; Westphal (P. J.), quarterback; Goldbre (K), halfback; Gilbert (P), halfback; Kadel (T. J.), fullback.

Due to the good leadership of the Poughkeepsie team by Swenson, it is logical that he be captain of the first eleven. The captaincy of the second team falls to Westphal.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS.

The thirty-five young women of this city who are taking part in the "Kingston Follies" at the Kingston Opera House this week are making a decided hit, and are improving with each performance. Tuesday all three shows drew large audiences and the performances will be repeated for the balance of the week.

There are also several good vaudeville acts and a feature picture shown at each performance. Thursday evening as an extra feature, a moving picture will be taken of the Follies on the stage.

Houdini in "Haldane of the Secret Service," is the feature picture at Keeney's today. The picture is said to be one of the most thrilling seen here in some time.

The Paramount picture, "The Girl from the Moon," which is coming to the Auditorium Theater today, has a strong cast of players. Belle Daniels and Nita Naldi are featured, they playing the leading roles, with David Powell and Maurice Costello in the support. Others in the cast are Rubye de Remer, Charles Gerrard, William Quirk and Pearl Sindelar.

The final showings of the Paramount picture, "To the Last Man," at the Orpheum tonight, together with the vaudeville acts. Tomorrow there will occur an entire change of program, six vaudeville acts in conjunction with a special feature, "Rich Men's Wives," with an all star cast, including House Peters, Caston Glass, Baby Richard Headrick and Claire Windsor. It is a Gasnier production.

Chamber of Commerce Leases Quarters at 442 B'way For Five Years Beginning First of January, 1924

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce will move its quarters on January 1 next from its present location at 448 Broadway to 442 Broadway, now occupied as a confectionery store by Hugh E. DuBois. The Chamber has taken a five year lease on the lower floor of these premises from Mr. DuBois and his mother, the owners. Mrs. DuBois will retain her residence in the apartment upstairs and Mr. DuBois, it is understood, will go to Miami, Fla. The Chamber also has an option to purchase at any time during the period of the lease.

The Chamber's lease on its present quarters would not expire until November 1, 1924, but through the courtesy of Charles J. Trainor, who owns the premises, a release was obtained in order to close a deal for the premises at 442, which are deemed more suitable for the Chamber's needs.

Mrs. Becker, who conducted a restaurant upstairs in the building at 448, has also closed up her business.

ZASLER CASE GOES TO JURY

The action for negligence brought by Nathan Zasler against C. D. Divine and Jesse Divine was concluded in supreme court Tuesday afternoon except for the summation by counsel and the charge of the court.

When court opened at 10 o'clock this morning John R. DeVany, attorney for Mr. Divine, moved for a dismissal of the complaint on the usual grounds and that plaintiff had failed to make a case. Judge Rosch reserved decision but dismissed the complaint as against Jesse Divine and allowed the question to go to the jury. Mr. DeVany summed up his case for defendant and Judge Jenkins for plaintiff.

This is an action which grows out of an accident at Ellenville on September 23, 1920, when Mr. Divine's car struck plaintiff, injuring his foot. Plaintiff claimed that he was standing on the running board of a parked car on a village street and that a car driven by defendant came down the street and did not allow enough space between the two cars so that when he stepped from the running board of the parked car the Divine car struck him, breaking a bone in his foot. Mr. Divine contends that he was operating an electric machine at a slow rate of speed along the street and that when he approached the car upon which Zasler was standing plaintiff jumped from the car directly in front of his machine. The Divine machine was stopped almost immediately after striking plaintiff, according to both plaintiff and defendant.

The quartet is said to be one of the finest male quartets now appearing before the public.

FOX IS SUING FOR A FALSE ARREST

Seeks to Obtain $6,000 Damages From William McCord, a Town of Gardiner Farmer—Suit Now on Trial in Newburgh.

The Newburgh News of Tuesday said: Today in Supreme Court here was devoted chiefly to the trial of the suit of George Fox, a young man residing on the outskirts of Walden, against William McCord, a farmer of the Town of Gardiner, Ulster county, for $6,000 damage for malicious prosecution.

Fox, who is represented by Earl H. Houghtaling and Henry Hirschberg as counsel, testified that in May last he contracted to work for McCord as a farmhand at $45 a month, with firewood and house rent. According to his story, he was taken ill, and at 11 p. m., June 5, McCord, who wanted him off the place, notified him that Justice of the Peace Joseph Deyo of Ireland Corners, two miles away, desired to see him. He went immediately to the home of Deyo, who told him it would be to his advantage to get off the place. He had already consulted a lawyer in Gardiner named Appel, who had advised him that he had a right to stay.

Fox testified today that when he returned to the farm that night McCord and two or three negroes and a half-breed Indian farmhand assaulted him and that in self-defense he drew a small pocket-knife which he used on McCord and one of the negroes in warding off the attack. At 1 o'clock next morning McCord swore out a warrant charging him with second degree assault, and he was immediately taken into custody and committed later to the Kingston jail. A few days later he was released on $1,000 bail furnished by his mother. The grand jury failed to indict.

McCord denies any malicious prosecution, and says that Fox broke his contract by leaving for a week without leave, and later refusing to stay on steadily. At one time he consented to get out, but on the night of June 5 he returned and became violent and abusive, stabbing the defendant in the arm with a knife. A negro who followed Fox to a woodshed was also stabbed by the plaintiff. A physician dressed both men's wounds. McCord declares it was not until after this that he obtained a warrant from Justice Deyo. DeWitt C. Ostrander of Clintondale is conducting the defense.

"MARY'S" REJECTION CAUSES STUDENT TO KILL SELF

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Suicide was the verdict of police today in the death of Charles E. Sternberg, University of Pennsylvania freshman whose lifeless body with a bullet through the brain, was found late last night in the university dormitory. In one hand Sternberg clutched a telegram telling of a blasted romance.

"I am sorry for you, but we must part forever," were the words of the message, the police believed led the man to take his life. It was signed "Mary" and was dispatched from Mount Vernon, N. Y., where "Mary" attends school.

Sternberg's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sternberg, 220 West 98th Street, New York. The elder Sternberg is an orchestra leader.

The name of the girl is being withheld.

TO FIGHT NEW RURALSCHOOLBILL

Debate at Ashbury Results in Naming Committee to Call Meeting in This City to Form Association.

An unusually interesting public meeting was held in the school house at Ashbury on Tuesday, December 4, to discuss the proposed changes in the rural school law. The meeting was opened by an address by W. Trueman of Lake Katrine, who briefly outlined the history of the present agitation from the introduction of the township bill up to the present. His remarks were well received by both sides, though he did not spare the committee of 21 or the board of education upon whom he laid the responsibility for whatever shortcomings now exist in the rural schools. He said in part:

"Speaking in Albany last week before the State Teachers' Association, Dr. F. P. Graves is reported as saying: 'There are two types who still oppose the rural school bill. Those who do not know any better and those who are getting a benefit by keeping the present system in force.'"

"During the fight over the township bill at a large meeting at Oneonta another member of the state board of education said, 'The only ones opposed to this bill are a lot of children, old fossils with one foot in the grave.'"

"It must be remembered that these highly intelligent expressions of opinion are not the outbursts of the illiterate foreigner or the heated words of the exasperated farmer, but the best arguments coming from the very highest authorities, extra-sublimated specimens of modern education who now stand before us minus their robes and their halos as just ordinary, mediocre individuals peevish at being checked in their endeavors to force an obnoxious law on the rural people and without the wit to conceal their chagrin."

"No better evidence of the need of reform of the present system could be offered. The trouble with these people is they began at the bottom instead of the top where the whole trouble lies."

Mrs. Hiram Flanger presented the other side admirably, using her long experience as a rural teacher for her background. She pointed out many defects in the present system which should under normal conditions be abolished, all of which she confidently expects to vanish under the new law.

Remarks on the above were then made by Mrs. Charles Smith, Courtney Seaborn, W. J. Trembour, Clarence Lasher, Thomas Ketterson, Clarence Flinger, George Brown and Virgil Chidister.

A motion was then made to appoint a committee to arrange a meeting in the court house, Kingston, at an early date for the purpose of forming an association for the defense of rural schools.

On being put to a vote, the result was, 13 for, 6 against, 2 negative.

Thomas Ketterson of Flatbush was appointed chairman and W. Trueman, secretary.

K. H. S. FOOTBALL BANQUET AND FIRST COURT GAME

The annual football banquet given by the H-Y Club will be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Three excellent speakers have been secured by the executive committee of the H-Y and a good time is looked for. Surprise Madrid Reids.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Madrid, Dec. 5.—Police today surprised a secret Syndicalist meeting arresting 54 of the leaders.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Dec. 5.—After fighting like Kilkenney cats for two days the Republicans of the Sixty Eighth Congress buried their differences today and peacefully and prosaically organized congress for business.

Frederick H. Gillett, Republican, of Massachusetts, was re-elected speaker of the house on the first ballot taken.

The Democrats jeered at the proceedings while voting as usual for Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, the insurgents smiled satisfied smiles of victory and the Republican leadership breathed sighs of relief as the clerk announced the election of the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Gillett received 215 votes of a total of 414 cast, Garrett got 197, Martin Madden of Illinois, 2 and four members voted present.

When the session opened today, Representative John M. Nelson the insurgent leader, arose and asked unanimous consent to make a statement. It was granted. He said:

"A committee of the progressive group of the house of representatives consisting of Messrs. Woodruff and LaGuardia and myself, met with Majority Leader Longworth last evening and discussed the proposed procedure for a revision of the rules of the house. At this meeting mutual assurances were given that the following program would be carried out."

"1. That the rules of the Sixty Seventh Congress should be adopted as the rules of the Sixty Eighth Congress for thirty days only."

"2. That during those thirty days amendments to the rules may be offered by any member, to be referred to the committee on rules, which committee shall consider such amendments and make a report thereon to the house."

"Within such 30 days the committee shall make a report of the rules and such amendments as they recommended. The rules and amendments as reported by the committee shall be subject to reasonable discussion, amendment and record votes of the house."

"4. When the committee shall have made the report, any member of the house shall have opportunity to offer amendments to any rule of the house and may call for a record vote thereon whether such rule has been included in the report of the committee or not."

"5. One motion to recommit shall be in order."

EXPLORERS SAIL UP DEADLY RIVER

Eighteen Adventurers Enter Cobra Whence None Has Ever Returned.

San Francisco.—Eighteen "gentlemen" sailors, who early last spring sailed out of the Golden Gate for the South seas aboard the old clipper ship Narwhal, are in a fair way toward realizing the thing which they set out to seek, namely adventure of the hair-raising variety, with possible death thrown in.

The Narwhal and her motley crew, made up of almost as many different nationalities as there are members, is somewhere up the mysterious Cobra river in Borneo. Seafaring men who have ventured into the South seas declare the river is as deadly as its name.

None Ever Returns.

Never before has it been successfully explored by white men. Several parties of adventurers in the past 20 years have sought to solve its secrets and bring back to the outside world the story of the country and the people in the jungle fastness which it penetrates. None of the exploring parties has ever returned. Neither have they ever been heard from again.

According to a letter received here, the Narwhal started its adventure cruise up the Cobra more than a month ago. The river is navigable for large vessels for hundreds of miles into the interior depths of Borneo. At the last South seas port where the Narwhal stopped to take on fresh supplies it was announced that all of her crew would attempt the hazardous trip. Plans are for the Narwhal to proceed up the river as far as it proves navigable for her and then for the crew to take to small boats and explore the Cobra clear to its source.

Should the party emerge safe and sound, unlike all others that have ventured up the Cobra, the world promises to be considerably enriched by their journeyings. Not only are they carrying along arms and ammunition for big game hunting and trapping, but three motion picture cameras and thousands of feet of film are a part of the Narwhal's outfit. Two movie photographers will attempt to secure for an American film company pictures of the strange and cannibalistic people that are said to be found along the Cobra in its far interior reaches. Hunters aboard the Narwhal also will seek to bring back specimens of rhinoceros, elephants, orang-utan and several species of deadly snakes.

Of Diverse Nations.

The cruise of the Narwhal is one of the most picturesque in modern seafaring history. Included among the 18 "gentlemen" sailors are a former Russian nobleman, two titled Englishmen, an Arctic explorer, two Frenchmen, who have hunted big game in Africa; a former American naval commander and two Germans, who once were plantation owners in the Solomon Islands.

The Narwhal's principal objective is an island in the Solomon group, where the two German plantation owners formerly lived and where, according to their claims, they were compelled to bury a quarter of a million dollars in gold and gems at the outbreak of the World war. Should the story of the Germans prove true and the fortune be recovered, half of it will be divided up among the other 16 crew members.

Many stories regarding the adventures of the Narwhal's crew already have drifted back home. In her cruise across the Pacific to Pago Pago, a hard-boiled and hard-fisted mate who did not believe in the Soviet system of social equality aboard ship compelled most of the "gentlemen" sailors to scrub decks, take turns in the cook's galley and do other menial tasks. There was a near-mutiny, but it was promptly put down by the mate with a belaying pin. When the Narwhal finally made Pago Pago the crew fired the mate. They had to pay the mate a whole year's salary and his transportation home.

Fled From Amazons.

In the meantime native belles at Pago Pago insisted that several members of the crew marry them and take up their permanent abode at South Sea Islands husbands, and a near battle was staged with natives when they turned down the invitations.

So little is known of the Cobra river, where the Narwhal's crew is now seeking its latest adventures, that their experiences cannot even be conjectured. Veteran mariners who have been in Borneo waters, all tell like stories for its reputed deadliness for white adventurers. Among other things, it is said to swarm so thickly with crocodiles of such huge size that a small boat does not dare venture into many parts of it.

Lights to Warn Ships of Approaching Storms

Stockholm.—Sweden is about to equip its shores with a novelty in the way of storm warnings, pillars of fire readily visible at night from the sea to tell mariners of approaching storms. Strategic points on both the east and west coasts will be selected for the lights, and the new service will be particularly valuable to vessels not provided with radio.

DAILY FASHION FEATURE WRITTEN BY ELEANOR GUNN.

A Daily Fairchild Fashion Feature to be Found Hereafter in The Freeman.

AN OLD FRIEND IN A NEW GUISE.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

With Paris full of Russian refugees, interest rife in Russian drama and music, it is natural that some of this enthusiasm should be reflected in what women wear. Several seasons ago, the Russian influence in dress dominated the situation, but other conflicting interests crept in, without entirely losing the hold which these picturesque colors and designs had on womanhood.

Knit goods by almost any other name would have more allure, yet knitted underwear and knit goods are terms which we must learn stand for garments much more attractive than their name implies. In such types, Ukrainian and Russian motifs and colors are conspicuous, and it helps us renew our interest in European designs.

The sweater has undergone a metamorphosis. Instead of the slip-on in solid color, the approved sweater is on coat lines and gay not only in color but design. One does not need an exceptional memory to recall the success of the Fair Isle sweater, a success largely due to the fact that the Prince of Wales sponsored this type himself, which therefore caused the masculine world to follow in his footsteps.

design executed in cross-stitch embroidery. That sweaters in almost any guise are again the fashion, is particularly welcome at this season, for it enlarges one's Christmas gift possibilities. Separate knitted coats longer than the usual sweater are another interpretation which adds favor. (Copyright, 1923, Fairchild.)

The Hot Cakes of New England

Like the "Roast Beef of Old England," the "Hot Cakes of New England" are justly famous in song and story. The one all-satisfying breakfast dish that has outlived the mutations of Time; survived the changes of the family appetite.

And oh what glorious griddle cakes Reliance Flour always makes! No chance to go wrong in making or in eating them. Any cook can "make 'em so good" that everybody wants to eat 'em.

Chic Clothes for Street and House

Straight Lines Prevail in Fashions for Present Season.

A varied amount of material is put into the newest clothes, and in Paris, for street and house; but the quality of that material, its richness and delicacy, make it so costly that there are no less dear than they have been, according to a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. Also, every possible opportunity has been given to fine handwork, embroidery, and applique and beading, as well as the revival of a dozen beautiful old stitches, such as herring-bone, braid stitching, French knotting and chenille, used in beautiful flower designs on plain silks, velvets and kashas, on lace, metal tissue and tulle.

Corsets, or rather what now goes under that name, are nothing in the world but rather flattened tubes of silk elastic, exactly the same size top and bottom, and which, while they compress any flowing tendency above and below the waist, allow plenty of space at the exact waistline, so producing the absolutely essential drainpipe silhouette.

Skirts are hung on slim, sleeveless, close fitting or silk net bodices, which grip the hips and from which the skirt depends, sewed on perfectly flat back and front, with only the slightest easing at the sides, just enough fullness to allow the line from hem to hip to fall straight. Skirts are narrower than ever, but the necessary width for stepping is allowed for a wrap-over or a slit up one side or both, disclosing a straight petticoat of rich brocade or silk to contrast or tone, or a panel of exquisite embroidery which may be seen again in a similar slit from wrist to elbow, or a long wedge-shaped inset between the shoulders at the back, the point of this latter finished with a slender silk tassel reaching halfway down the skirt.

Straight Fitting Bodices.

Over this very severe skirt is worn an equally straight-fitting bodice, slightly wrinkled just above the hips, but without a waistline. Where the two meet, just at the hip line, the skirt may have a scheme of decoration in braid stitching or embroidery, repeated on the tunic blouse so that the exact line of separation is indistinguishable, or the jumper may be finished with a narrow bolster of fine fur or a flat, shaped yoke into which the slight underarm fullness is drawn. The very most that remains of hip fullness on either bodice or skirt is a long tassel at the left side of the tunic blouse or a motif in narrow watered ribbon or tinsel braid, from which hangs a sheaf of ribbon streamers to the hem of the skirt.

One-piece dresses follow this outline and evening dresses deviate almost not at all except that a slight variation is made by a double skirt or a wrap-over arrangement. But even so the straight outline remains, and where there is an ornament to catch

The folds of a draped dress it occurs low on the front of the hip, leaving the straight up-and-down line unbroken.

The sleeves on a one-piece frock of blue kasha cloth are very long and have mitten cuffs. Dresses made to be worn under matching cloaks are sleeveless but afternoon dresses for winter wear have wing-sleeve draperies or deep bertha collars of lace or metal tissue, which forms a sort of sleeve.

Velvet or moire dinner dresses in gold colors, rust red, emerald green, periwinkle pink, cinnamon and chocolate are to be used for formal occasions. These are laid, not draped, round the figure in broadness, the edges undisturbed, and appear to have no shape, but to be held together merely by a jeweled clasp at one side and a single flexible shoulder strap of jewels. The broadness lies perfectly flat, back and front, and the shimmering surface of each breadth appears to reflect a dozen different shades of the same color.

Fashion Revives Handwork.

Fashion, whose eye is always on the alert for new impressions, has discovered in the handwork of our great-grandmothers the inspiration for some of the most interesting decorations of the present season. Within the last few years there has been an awakened interest in hooked rugs, and women who have not been able to afford the antique rugs have painstakingly copied the old patterns and made the rugs themselves.

Not content with that, they have applied this same process of hooking to other articles for the home, and the table runners and cushion tops done in this form of needlework are lovely and decidedly unique. The crowding stroke of material grain, however, is revealed in a sports coat made entirely of wool and hooked just as a rug would be.

The body of the coat is done in soft beige wool while the huge collar and decorative bands on the sleeves are done in shades of bright blue or red with an occasional touch of mauve, yellow and almond green. It is worn with a skirt of beige wool, slim and straight in line and finished at the hem with a narrow turned-up cuff. The inevitable black fur cloche completes a costume as smart in appearance as it is unusual.

"Stripes and Plaids for Sports Wear" Has Become an Accepted Adage. Stripes Take a New Turn When They Appear Both Lengthwise and Crosswise on Same Garment.

Smart frocks achieve distinction by the addition of girdles and sashes that give a colorful touch. One charming girdle has a row of dainty, soft-hued flowers, made by touching glue to ribbon. With a few yards of ombre ribbon, a piece of buckram and a tube of the best quality of liquid glue which will not discolor the fabrics it can be made at home. On small buckram wheels flute the ombre ribbon in circular effect and attach lightly with a bit of liquid glue. Cut tiny holes in the center and draw a length of the ribbon through them, tying a knot in the center of each flower. The ribbon continues in long streamers knotted at intervals.

Spanish Shawls Are Worn.

Spanish shawls made of dyed flax silk lace with very deep fringe all round are worn with richly embroidered nylon dresses, cut straight with a shallow oval at the throat and no sleeves. These dresses are of shell pink, Nile green, bronze or chocolate, are shaded, and the shawls are tinted to match.

Furs are used undyed with shaded silks and kashas. Persian lamb is especially beautiful in its natural state, gray shading to iron gray and then to black. A coat made of iron gray moire, run with steel threads in a conventional design, eight inches deep around the Cosack skirt is hemmed with undyed Persian lamb to a depth of 18 inches; the immensely wide "jam-pot" collar is of the same and the broad, straight cuffs show a narrower strip of embroidery above the fur. The lining of this coat is iron gray chiffon with an all-over pattern of steel threads.

Many new coats are made without fur trimming, but are worn with ermine, chinchilla or sable ties, which fit close round the neck and have fur tabs down the front. These are the latest form of fur neckpiece.

The confusion of the fashion makers this winter is evident in the way they grasp at straws. The public must select a few styles and make them dominant factors. The array of sleeves offered in the passing show of clothes is suggestive of a parade of international flags.

Sleeve of Black Lace.

There's the sleeve of black lace that starts at the hat brim and, falling over the shoulders, runs down the arm to end in a snug wristlet. Curious and charming is this invention, which was suggested by the Spanish mantilla.

The Spanish flounce is a prevailing feature of fashion. So are Spanish earrings, embroidered shawls, tortoiseshell combs. Boleros are revived, so is the plaited skirt of the bull-fighter; also the low-heeled slipper. None of these things are new to eyes in America, for dressmakers have been advancing them timidly for a year,

World's Best Seller.

A few books have reached a circulation as high as 200,000 in a single year. One book is reported to have run well toward a million copies in its first year. The Bible, however, today has reached 30,000,000 copies a year or 80,000 copies a day. Yet if all the millions of Bibles published since the discovery of printing were brought together today, there would not be enough to give each inhabitant of Asia a copy. The Bible was the first book on the press, and has never been off. It can be bought at a cheaper price than any other book, and yet $50,000—the highest price ever offered for one single volume—was paid in 1912 for one of the first printed copies of the Bible. An ancient book yet the best seller in a modern world, an Oriental book yet the best seller in Occidental countries, the Bible seems to prove the rule of the survival of the fittest.

Rats Tailless Too.

Canadians hearing Liverpool see the beautiful "Calf of Man," a rocky island fringed with white seas and crowned with purple south of the Isle of Man. Its original owner received from Queen Elizabeth a grant of this island, which was declared to be forever free from taxation. No one can live there, or even on its shores, without the consent of the owner. The late owner was so engrossed in his books and lived so retired a life that years would sometimes elapse between his visits to the neighboring Isle of Man. Only a small part of the land is cultivated, and the whole is overrun with rabbits and rats both of which are tailless. This little island kingdom was sold not so long ago for $100,000.

It sounds almost modern, except for the expression "he lieth." Nowadays that might be misunderstood.

Vinegar for Long Life.

Now some English firm comes forth with the declaration that to live long you want to become a vinegar maker. In several instances workmen engaged in the distilling of vinegar have been in the service of the firm for from 60 to 70 years. The average age of the heads of departments is 70, and to have three or four generations of a family at work in the vinegar distillery at the same time is quite common. At a recent birthday dinner of the firm, the combined ages of four of the guests totaled 375 years. The eldest was nearly 90 and the youngest nearly 70.

Vermont Once a Readable

Vermont was an independent republic from January 17 1777 to its admission into the Union March 4 1791. The first legislature met at Windsor in 1778 and adjourned to Rutland for its June session. The laws for carrying on the government were enacted at this session of the legislature. Records of this session of the legislature are preserved in the Vermont State Archives. The convention which on January 10 1791 ratified the Constitution of the United States by the signatures of 105 delegates prepared a way for admission of Vermont into the Union is the first state after the original thirteen.

African Response.

Dr. Fraser, the missionary, now moderator of the United Free Church of Scotland, writes: "Men speak scornfully of the lack of initiative in the African. I know a little about these simple children of nature, and can testify that if a man deals with them justly and affectionately no mother can be more self-sacrificing towards her child than they are to the European in his need. Their courtesy to ladies is worthy of high-born gentlemen. Their loyalty to the white man who has shown consideration for them

Saxon Wedding Ring

The wedding ring of plain gold, which is a survival of Saxon times, has outlived several attempts at change of fashion. For instance, at the marriage of Queen Mary of England to Philip of Spain the English statesmen debated the question of the ring and wished to have it jeweled, but Mary herself intervened by declaring that she would not have it set with gems, for she chose to be wedded with a plain hoop of gold like other maidens.

WOMEN AND THE BILLBOARDS.

The women of the country are out in a determined effort to get rid of the roadside billboards that disfigure our scenery from ocean to ocean, and it looks as if the end of that hideous nuisance were in sight. The Federation of Women's Clubs has done so well that in one state a law has been passed prohibiting the use of billboards on public highways. The Garden Club of America is putting forth its efforts especially through influencing the advertisers themselves. Since women are the largest class of users and purchasers of the products advertised, this seems the logical way to achieve the result. It means slower work perhaps, but on the whole better than legislation. Reforms through education are far more lasting than reforms sought to be thrust upon us by law, and already large advertisers are seeing which way the wind blows and trimming sail accordingly.

VETERANS' BUREAU SCANDAL.

The open hearings before the Senate sub-committee to investigate the Veterans' Bureau for the Veterans of the World War have not completed the scandalous record, but the evidence showed plundering of the Government and criminal neglect of disabled veterans. We read that large sums of money were paid for undesirable hospital sites, that excessive fees were given to architects and agents, that supplies needed by the bureau were carted off and sold for a song, and that bribes were offered; that the trail of corruption was over many enterprises intended for the relief of ex-service men; that the politicians were accomplices or allowed themselves to be made tools of by rogues; that the politicians filled the bureau with their creatures. But it would appear that this is not all, for General O'Ryan is quoted as saying: "What has been presented in the public hearings constitutes but a fragment of what has been developed since the investigation began last March, both in regard to the neglect of the disabled and the corruption and waste in the Veterans' Bureau." Possibly the full story has not been made public because members of Congress are involved. In any case it is asserted that Congress was to blame for delaying two years an investigation of the bureau. This scandal, as a climax to all the dissolutions following the war, must be regarded as profoundly discouraging by the public generally. Its effect on those who risked their lives for the cause, and especially the disabled, can be imagined. A thorough clean up, including a round-up of the guilty, no matter who they may be, is to be hoped for, though this may be too much to expect.

In these times the princely income of a great singer does not come to an end on retirement or even at death. It is stated that in 1921 and 1922 the estate of Caruso received nearly $600,000 from the phonograph records of his voice.

In refusing a new medal for military valor, d'Annunzio announces that all his decorations, including sixteen granted for bravery, have been burned on an altar over the body of "his own unknown soldier," upon which he also offers sacrifices of burning laurel leaves. The poet soldier of Italy is original, to say the least.

The president of the National Alliance for the Increase of Birth in France is qualified for her office. At the age of 38 she is the mother of 11 children, one of whom is in the army. Owing to threatened starvation caused by the paralysis of her husband, she organized her other 10 children in a dancing troupe and has now brought them to give exhibitions in the United States. A woman of such devotion and resource deserves success in her venture irrespective of the quality of the performance.

The aggregate value of farm products, including dairy products, meat and live stock, according to the Farm Journal's Bureau of Research, is no less than $16,208,000,000. It is estimated that prices have increased 52 per cent over the pre-war period, but farm products are worth 72.6 per cent more. Why, then, are farmers supposed to be in such bad shape and in such urgent need of government help? It would appear from the figures that the loud complaints following the drop in wheat prices have created a wrong impression.

There is a thrill and almost a startling reminder of the multiplication of incredible marvels by modern science in that story of voices across the sea. In spite of the Atlantic's roar and its more than 3,000 miles, faint sounds of music and of words have come across, all the way from Glasgow, Liverpool and Cardiff, and have been caught out of the air by waiting instruments on America's shores. Men still talk of our "splendid isolation" and advocate its continuance as a political policy, and yet it has come to this, in the steady progress of the world's community of interests, that we can even hear the very physical voices of Europeans. Even a decade ago no one would have dreamed of what the electro-physicist is already accomplishing, and the imagination is literally staggered in the contemplation of the possible achievements of the future.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Burton, M.D.

A FACTOR IN JEFFRIES' DEFEAT.

When Jeffries the heavy weight fighter was matched with Jack Johnson the colored fighter, the interest was tremendous.

People who took very little interest in boxing were much excited because it was a white man against a colored man.

You remember that the colored man won.

Why? Because the white man realized that he was carrying the hopes of thousands of people, and he began to worry about it.

It was not a case of lack of pluck. Jeffries never lacked that.

But that so many were depending upon him, simply got under him to such an extent that he became stale.

Why? Simply because he could not sleep. Those close to Jeffries, and those likewise close to Johnson knew this only too well.

Jeffries was an exhausted man before he entered the ring.

You might well ask why should a man in perfect health have any difficulty about getting off to sleep?

Isn't a man in training doing the very thing that will induce sleep—namely tiring out his body with his daily exercise?

Had this been a "private" fight between these two men, Jeffries would likely have slept like a baby.

But to be the "white" hope was just too much for him.

Now what played out on him? Our physiologists have taught us that tiredness of the nerves comes long before tiredness of the muscles.

Had the trainers of Jeffries been able to get his mind off this one idea that the white race were depending on him, he would have entered the ring in fit condition to defend his title.

What's the lesson? That sleep, restful sleep is one thing that Nature demands if you are to be at your best, mentally and physically.

Further, that in trying to correct sleeplessness, it is not always enough just to tire the muscles of the body. There must be the calming of the mind by your own self control.

Perhaps by an endeavor to get a wholesome common sense view of the conditions causing sleeplessness, and after working it out, try to dismiss it from your mind.

Don't take your worries to bed with you.

A Winner of Prizes

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Charles Macklin had just won a cup at polo. His yacht had won a race that season in the twenty-foot class, Corinthian crews, and Charles was proportionally puffed up. There were no shrinking violets mingled with the victor's bays worn by Charles Macklin. He was now expatiating to Clara Fontana upon his latest victory and becoming a trifle indignant at her lack of enthusiasm.

"Why, Clara," he said at last, "you don't seem to care whether I won the cup or not. What is the matter? You were pleased enough when I won the yacht race."

"Yes," replied Clara, "and I am glad you won the polo cup. But I have been thinking lately—beginning to see things in a different light."

"Why—why?" stammered Charles in alarm, "you haven't ceased to love me, have you?"

"No," replied Clara, "but I am beginning to wish—oh, forgive me, Charles—but I am beginning to wish I had loved a different sort of man."

Charles gasped, speechless with astonishment. He—the triumphant yachtsman, the victorious polo player, the young millionaire fairly mobbed by mothers with marriageable daughters; the socially impeccable, the morally correct? Where in the broad realm of society could he find his peer? He felt as if his "ego" had suddenly been drenched with a bucket of metaphorical ice water.

Clara went on: "You see, Charles, you don't amount to anything." Another bucket of metaphorical ice water. "I mean that you don't accomplish anything worth while. You win yacht races and polo matches, but in the larger affairs of the world, in the real business of life, in the things which really count—what part do you play? In commerce, literature, the arts and sciences, public life, you have no part at all. You did not even accumulate the money you spend—it was left to you."

"Great Scott!" cried Charles. "What do you want me to do? I am not silly enough to think I can write a book or paint a picture. I never was much of a sharp in the scientific line at college, but if you say so I'll go in for bacteriology or electricity, or something of that sort. They can't be very difficult, judging by some of the Johnnies I've seen messing with 'em."

Clara laughed. "That shows how little you really know about such things," said she. "We'll skip the arts and sciences—but why not go in for politics? There is a great field for young men like you in American politics today. Look at—"

And she named several young men of wealth and civil position who had gone into politics and made their reputations—"machine-busters" and terrorists to old-time bosses.

The idea caught Macklin's fancy at once. "By Jove!" cried he, "great idea. Thanks for those words of wisdom, Miss Clara Fontana. I'll show you whether I amount to anything or not. Salute the next governor." And Clara made her salute—one, two, three kisses; delighted that she had at last stirred the dormant ambition of her beloved Charles.

"Just as soon as you succeed, Charles," said she, "we will be married. No need to wait until you are governor—I will be content to be State Senator Macklin's lady." Macklin's announcement that he was going in for politics was felt by John Henry Parmelee, the district boss of Macklin's party, to be a special intervention in his behalf of whatever gods there be that preside over the devious ways of political bosses.

A little deal was on by which the state senatorship from that district was to be swapped by Parmelee's party—which was strong enough in the senate to get along without it—for certain concessions with regard to the city ticket. Knowing of this deal the old stagers laughed when asked to sacrifice themselves to make a Parmelee holiday and refused the senatorial nomination.

There were several young lawyers who were willing to run for the advertisement of the thing, but these young lawyers were all frightfully impetuous and Parmelee was not disposed to squander money on a candidate put up to be knocked down—and some little expenditure would be necessary even for a candidate led to slaughter.

As a matter of fact, Parmelee's war chest was in anything but a plethoric condition anyway. So when Macklin, with his millions behind him, announced to the boss that he was about to rip things wide open in the political world, Parmelee could have hugged him. The force was well staged by the boss' assistants, who were experts at that form of dramatic art.

Macklin was nominated on the regular ticket for state senator and they faked up a reform party out of respectable imbeciles and disreputable political discards which endorsed Macklin's nomination. There were rallies and speeches and incidentally, Macklin was bled unconsciously for "necessary and legitimate expenses."

"I've got them on the run," the enthusiastic Charles told his admiring Clara. "Get your wedding dress ready and pick out a house at the capital for next winter."

At last came the election. As Charles, at his headquarters that night, read the returns as they came clicking in on the private wire, his wonder almost overpowered his dismay.

Not a cog had slipped. "I had a wild idea that I was running for office," said Macklin. "But I was mistaken—the other fellow was doing the

DRIVER STEPPED ON WRONG PEDAL

George L. Cowen of Milwaukee was accustomed to driving a different make of car and when the gear shift lever jammed on this new coupe he stepped on the gas instead of the brake. The car plunged through a 14-inch brick wall and into a neighbor's patch. But the only damage to the car was a smashed sun visor and a cracked radiator cap.

ESSENTIAL TOOL KIT FOR ANY CAR

There Are Many Little Accessories That Are Both Important and Necessary.

(By ERWIN GHEER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.) When it comes to tools one may better have too many than too few. Tools are easily misplaced or lost and it is of vital importance to see to it that the tool kit is well supplied before starting on the tour.

It is surprising how few motorists check over the tool kit before starting on their trip.

During recent rambles over the country I encountered many disciples of the "Will-You-Lend-Me" club. On one occasion I met a fellow from a nearby state who was starting on a tour of the west. His car had stopped for some reason unknown to him and he asked assistance.

He Had No Tools. I soon traced the trouble to the gas line and asked him for a wrench with which to remove the coupling. He said he had no wrenches, but he thought he had a pair of pliers some place in the car. These he brought forth after diligently searching under both front and back seats. They were of the shearing variety, with the jaws both broken. I soon remedied the trouble with equipment from my own tool box and advised my less fortunate friend to drop into an automobile accessory store and provide himself with a set of tools.

Many Little Tools Needed. Aside from these special tools there are many little accessories to the tool box that are both important and necessary. A tow rope, extra light bulbs, the repair outfit, jack and pump, ignition wrenches, socket wrench set, screw driver, many are the additions that prove a life-saver when the car gives trouble. Boxes of assorted pins, bolts and nuts and washers, should be included when the list is made.

SHARP CORNERS RUIN TIRES

Experts Claim It Takes Off Tread as in Skidding—It Weakens Side Wall Fabric.

Taking a sharp corner without slackening speed means poor service from tires. Although everyone knows that it is in a skidding accident, there are still many who will take a sharp curve without taking their foot off the accelerator. The practice is responsible for as many collisions as any other one thing.

But even where nothing happens to car or driver, there is something happening to the tire. The tendency of the car to sway to the side as it takes a corner puts a severe strain on the casing. Tire men claim to some extent it takes off the tread as in skidding. More serious is its effect on the fabric. It weakens the side wall fabric, and brings nearer the day when the tire must be discarded.

MOTORIST'S EMERGENCY KIT

Need Certain but Few Items for Tire Troubles, but These Are of Great Importance.

A motorist's emergency kit need contain but a few items for tire troubles, but these are vital and none should be omitted. These necessities are tire tape for tire or ignition trouble, a cold-patch kit for punctures, a blowout patch, a can of soapstone and a tire gauge.

Motor Maxims

Look before you back. A skid to the wise is sufficient.

An ounce of attention is worth a pound of overhaul. A tool in the kit is worth a thousand in the garage.—Boston Transcript.

ADDITIONAL SEAT IS HANDY IN SEDAN CAR

Will Be Found Useful in Certain Kinds of Machines.

In a sedan, where it is often desired to carry a sixth passenger, the addition of a detachable, upholstered seat to fill the gap between the front seats is both convenient and practical. Such a seat may be six inches wide by 14 inches long. The upholstery is about seven inches deep. The base of the seat is of wood, about half an inch thick. On this is placed either five or six coil springs, such as are used in chair construction.

Two Types of Detachable Extra Front Seats Are Illustrated, Which Will Be Found Useful.

A felt or hair pad is fastened over the top. The detachable seat is then covered with the same material used for the interior coverings. The bottom of the seat is fitted with four metal hooks to catch over the edges of the adjacent seats. In an emergency, the sixth passenger can also be accommodated by means of a robe which is stretched across the adjoining seats and carried under the extreme edges. With the two end passengers seated, he will find the hammock-like robe quite comfortable for riding.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SILENCER ON TRANSMISSION

Mixture of Flaxseed Meal and Lubricant Is Recommended as Temporary Expedient.

To silence a noisy transmission try mixing flaxseed meal with the lubricant. This is recommended only as a temporary expedient, as a noisy transmission means generally breakage of the gears or misalignment that calls for a major operation to effect a real cure.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

In engines not fitted with special valve stem guide bushings excessive wear of the guide and consequent valve stem side play and oil leakage may be prevented by reaming the guide and fitting a bronze bushing.

In case a rivet in the frame or other location is found to be broken, a very acceptable repair may be made by running a bolt through the rivet hole and clinching it with a nut on the other end.

When it is necessary to prime the engine on the road and no other means is at hand, a valve cap tied to a bit of string and lowered into the gasoline tank will bring up enough gasoline to prime one cylinder.

SNOW STORM

"Come on Sir Freeze-the-Ponds," said King Snow. "Come on Mr. Wind," he added.

"We're waiting for you, too, Lovely Snowflake children," he called. "And we hope you'll not be late," he shouted to the Jeweler Brothers known as the Diamond-Snow Jewellers.

"I want to have a storm party," King Snow said, "and I'd like to have you all come."

"Of course the Jewellers don't have to come right away. But I hope they'll come soon after the party and won't be late in taking their places in the great winter reunion."

"You all know that a reunion means a gathering together once more so we all want to gather together to show that Old Man Winter is here."

"I'm here," Old Man Winter shouted. And Mr. Wind blew through his long fingers a great cold breath of air and whistled as he said:

"Oh, it's so nice to have a reunion," said King Snow.

"Would you like me to come, too, Your Majesty?" said an icy voice and there was Prince Storm dressed in Along Came Prince Sleet.

Jewelry of icicles and a crown of little snow peaks which had been frozen into shape by Prince Sleet's friend, Mr. Freezing-is-Fun.

"We want you, of course we want you," said King Snow.

So Prince Storm joined the party.

"And we want Mr. Freezing-is-Fun, too," King Snow added. "He is always such a nice one to have at a party. Some creatures go to a party and never say a word and don't make the slightest effort to help have a good time."

"For those who don't get into the fun of things don't enjoy themselves either. That is only fair of course. But it is so much nicer when they do enter into the fun of a party and enjoy themselves and help others have a good time."

"Mr. Freezing-is-Fun is a splendid creature at a party."

"And we must ask Prince Sleet. Prince Sleet would help a great deal."

"I'm here," said Mr. Freezing-is-Fun, for Mr. Wind had offered him a free ride to the party and Mr. Freezing-is-Fun had accepted with great eagerness and pleasure.

"Well, well, well, this is nice to see the old friends again."

"How do you do, Snowflake children?"

"Why, hello, Old Man Winter, I might have known I would have seen you here. This is nice, ha, ha, ha, this is nice."

"And I'm powerfully pleased to see you, Sir Freeze-the-Ponds. I'm such an admirer of yours."

So Mr. Freezing-is-Fun went around greeting all his friends and they were all glad to see him, too.

Then along came Prince Sleet.

"I met some one on the way who wants to come to the party," said Prince Sleet.

"Tell me who wants to come," said King Snow.

"It's the whole Blizzard family. Old Boy Blizzard wanted to know if he could come and bring the others. He said it was the nurse's day out and there was no one with whom to leave the children if all the older ones went off, too."

"As a matter of fact I think they sent that word as an excuse to bring the whole family but they don't mind if you know how very anxious they are to come—so long as you will let them come."

"Oh, yes," said King Snow, "they come."

"I'll tell them they're invited," said Mr. Wind.

"Thank you kindly, thank you kindly," said King Snow.

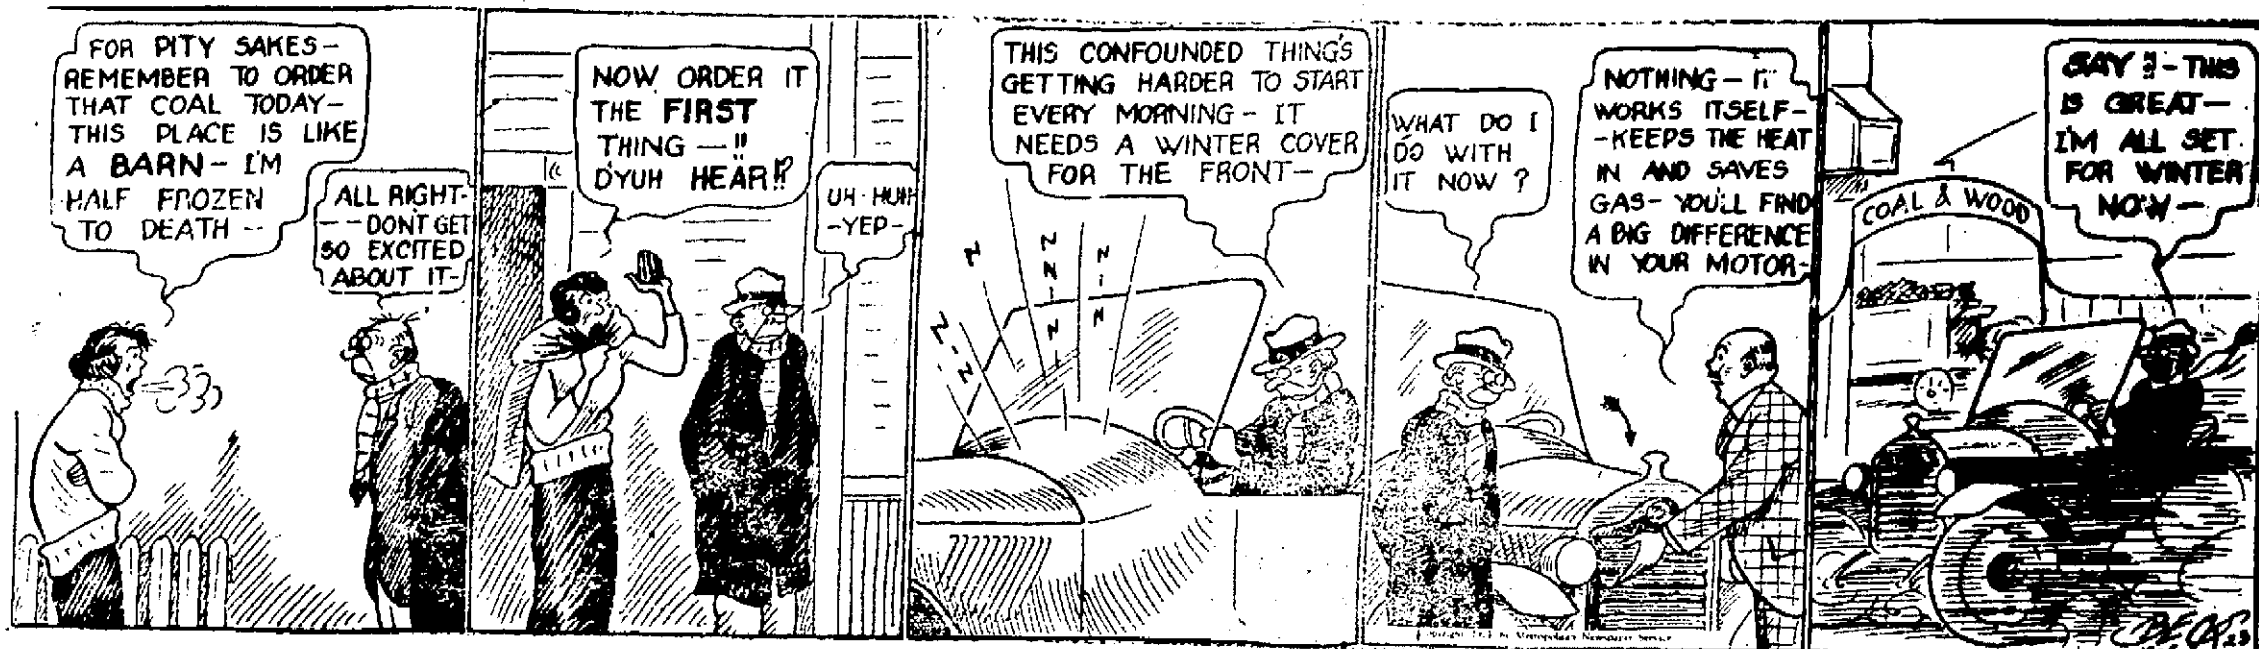

And soon, oh so soon, the Blizzard family came and such a snow-storm and blizzard and wild time as there was at the big reunion of King Snow and of Old Man Winter and their friends!

A Winner.

In recognition of the first-aid which he rendered to a dog hurt by an automobile, thirteen-year-old scout Harry Kohlberg of Omaha, Neb., was recently awarded a bronze medal, the first of its kind to be presented by the local humane society. The presentation took place in the presence of 200 Rotarians at the site of the new animal shelter. The shelter, which covers a quarter of a city block, is fitted with an operating room, a morgue, diet kitchen, animals, baths, runways and many other aids to the veterinary.

GAS BUGGIES—It's Different Where He's Concerned.

CHESTNUTS, FIGS, PRUNES

As chestnuts are in market at this time we will enjoy serving them in different ways. As a stuffing for turkey or other fowl, there is nothing more tasty. Cook the chestnuts until tender, remove the skins and mash them, season

with butter, salt and pepper and bind with an egg. If the nuts are plentiful they may be used entirely;

if not use bread crumbs mixed with the chestnut paste.

Chestnuts cooked and chopped, served with an equal part of apple and celery, make a delicious salad, using mayonnaise dressing to moisten.

As a soup mashed chestnuts put through a sieve and served as a cream soup is not the least disappointing.

Chestnuts cooked, blanched and served in a heavy lemon sirup poured over ice cream is a dessert de luxe.

For the company table a dish of figs prepared as follows will be found delicious:

Stuffed Figs.—Mash a cream cheese, moisten with heavy cream and season highly with salt and cayenne, then make into balls three-fourths of an inch in diameter. Wash and dry the figs, make an incision in each and stuff with the cheese balls. Arrange in piles on a plate covered with a lace paper dolly.

Chicken Consomme.—Disjoint a fourpound fowl and cut in pieces. Take four pounds of veal from the forequarter. Put into a kettle with one onion, two stalks of celery, eight slices of carrot, one teaspoonful of peppercorns, one-half bay leaf, four cloves, two sprigs of thyme and two sprigs of parsley. Cook slowly for four hours, removing the fowl as soon as tender.

Salt and pepper, strain and cool.

Reheat when ready to serve.

Molded Cheese With Preserves.—

Mash a cream cheese and press into a cone-shaped mold. Remove from the mold to a serving dish. Cover with whipped cream sweetened with powdered sugar and pour around preserved strawberries, currants, cherries or gooseberries.

REMOVE ROAD BILLBOARDS AT WOMEN'S REQUEST.

The Ulster Garden Club has taken up the removal from along highways and in a quiet way has done some effective work. They hope for co-operation with local advertisers. One of the largest soap manufacturers of the country voluntarily removed his billboard advertising in response to the women's movement, along this line and in reply to a letter from a member of the Ulster Garden Club sent the following letter:

"George Harrison, 'Bittersweet,' Woodstock, Ulster Co., N. Y."

or Madam:

We were pleased to receive your spontaneous approval of our action of discontinuing posters along the Lake George highway.

Incidentally, Mr. Kirkman personally feels as you do with regard to the placing of posters along highways of scenic beauty, and we were only too glad to cooperate when the fact that our posters were on such a highway was called to our attention.

We thank you for your assurance that our products will continue to enjoy your patronage.

Very truly yours,

KIRKMAN & SON.

Laughter Prolongs

Life, Says Sculptor

Baltimore Md.—Laughter prolongs life joy has a therapeutic value and joyous dancing statuary carries the mind into a spirit of play, declared Henry K. Bush-Brown, Washington sculptor in a lecture at the Baltimore museum of art. He said:

"There is a beautiful and spiritual advantage in the derived from art that expresses a care-free joy in living. We take life too seriously in America. In Europe you can hear good, hearty laughter but very rarely here. We smile, but seldom laugh."

"Those of us who buy art for our homes should buy pieces of art and art dealers should put their stores with lively satirical dancing nymphs and chubby jollicking children in amusing and interesting poses."

Mr. Bush-Brown is represented in the exhibition of sculpture at the Baltimore museum of art by a bust of Viscount James Fiske.

Bandit Robs Minister

Then Refuses Loot

Lynn, Mass.—Because a bandit had returned his belongings on finding he was a minister, Rev. P. O. Brooks, of the Advent Christian church asked the police not to investigate the hold-up which he reported to them.

As he was passing a vacant lot a masked man seized his bag containing about $3, a prayer book and other articles, the clergyman said. The bandit opened the bag asked him how he happened to be carrying a prayer book, and upon learning his victim's profession handed them back with the explanation that he would not rob a minister.

Engine Run by Mercury

Vapor Cuts Fuel Cost

Hartford, Conn.—The first mercury engine in the world for the production of power in commercial quantity is now in operation in the plant of the Hartford Electric Light company, whose officials predict a saving of from 40 to 50 per cent of fuel by its use. The invention is a turbine engine run by mercury vapor. The manufacture of these boilers is so intricate that it will be several years probably before larger boilers can be in operation. The new process, it is said, will require only about one-quarter of the fuel that is used with the best reciprocating engines.

Award $1,015,272

in U-Boat Claim

Washington—A judgment for $1,015,272.83 with interest from January 18, 1919 has been rendered by the Court of Claims in favor of the New York and Porto Rico Steamship company for the value of the steamship Caroline, which was sunk by a German submarine off the New Jersey coast on June 2, 1918, while Germany's U-boat raids were being carried on along the eastern seaboard of the United States. Passengers and crew escaped in lifeboats.

The shipping board, which requisitioned the ship, awarded $1,250,000. The amount was unsatisfactory to the steamship company, which brought suit to recover the real value of the vessel.

BROWN STATION

Brown Station, Dec. 4.—The little children of the Brown Station district were invited to spend Wednesday, November 28, at the school house. In the afternoon the pupils gave a short program which they had prepared as a surprise for their teacher, played games, and served a lunch, consisting of sandwiches, cake, candy and cocoa, which was furnished by parents and friends of the school. The teacher and pupils are very proud of the fine new slate black board that the trustee, H. J. Wright, has just placed in the school house.

The attendance at school this year is excellent. In the past five weeks there have been only six days of absence, five of which were due to illness. The following pupils have been present every day for five weeks: Burton Dudley, George Groves, John Groves, Bernard McCabe, LeGrand Shultz, Elise Groves, Olive Lawrence and Mary McCabe. The children are striving to get 100 per cent attendance for a month.

Miss Gladys Wright spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wright.

Burton Bell of Stamford, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caniff of New York city, spent the week-end with Mrs. Edwin Burhans.

John McCabe is having fine results with his radio. He got London, England.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dudley entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Silkworth Sunday evening.

Miss Flossie Bell spent week-end in Kingston.

Miss Lillian Groves spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Mary McCabe.

C. Kelly and father spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bell.

Millard Bell and Maurice Burger, spent Sunday with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bell.

LADLETON

Ladleton, Dec. 4.—Martin Hamilton returned from Kingston Wednesday with a new Ford car.

Mrs. M. Myers was called home Tuesday from Cornwall, N. Y., on account of the serious illness of her son, Rudolph. The little fellow is much improved at this writing.

J. A. Mackey put a new roof on his barn the past week.

Theodore Van Aken and Helen Hamilton, also Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mackey spent Sunday evening at George Hamilton's.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Hamilton and daughter Pearl, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hamilton.

P. Bouton and M. Parker were business callers in Ellenville Monday.

William Crawford is erecting a new house. Mr. Garabrant is doing the work at present.

Mrs. Whipple and Mr. and Mrs. George Carr were callers at George Hamilton's Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Southerland of Cornwall, are paying the last call to their country cottage for this season.

As yet Denning has no snow.

Matthew Myers of Woodbourne, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Riley Van Aken, and his many friends in this vicinity.

H. W. George of Red Hill, passed through this place Saturday.

Lawrence Backman of Beaver Dam, expects to be employed at M. Hamilton's in the near future.

What a tragedy for a human soul to merely exist with no high outlook, when the heart of Humanity is beating for Progress.

The House of Commons

The British house of commons had its origin in the reign of Henry III in 1258, when Simon de Montfort, earl of Leicester, ordered two knights from each shire, and deputies from certain boroughs to meet such of the barons and clergy as were favorable to his cause, with the view to strengthening his own power against that of the king. Triennial parliaments were instituted by the law of 1641. On the accession of George I in 1714 the Septennial act fixed the duration of parliament at seven years.

Sponges.

Fisheries experts and scientists have been unable to ascertain accurately how sponges feed. An ordinary sponge will grow from one to one and one-half inches or more a year. The portion of the sponge with which we are familiar is the skeleton or framework of the sea product as it exists in the briny deep. The slimy, gelatinous substance is decomposed by wind, weather and sunshine and subsequent soaking in sea water cures out any gelatinous materials which still adhere to the sponges.

In the Old Steamboat Days.

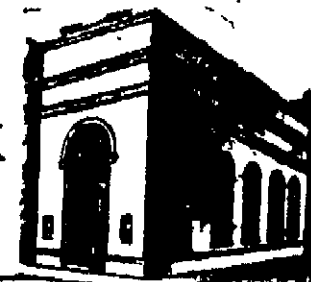

Nobody dared ship bacon on a fast packet in old steamboat days on the Mississippi, because, if the craft were challenged to a race, the loyal crew would seize the freight and throw it into the furnace to make more steam in the boilers. The engineer was famed for his skill and nerve. His religion was never to be passed on the river, says the Detroit News. In times of stress he would send a negro up to sit on the safety valve, that the precious element of speed might not be sacrificed to mere safety.

Discontent

It's funny that we seldom want the things that we have got, and that we often wish to be the one that we are not. If we are fat we would be lean, if lean we would be fat; the work that we'd most like to do is work we are not at. Were we to enter paradise, by special gift of grace, we straightway would begin to try to find the other place.—Boston Transcript.

Hame's Best

The story comes from Scotland of an American who was looking over a shooting box there with the intention of hiring it for the season. In the old-fashioned gunroom of the place was the inscription, "East, West, Hame's Best," observing which the American exclaimed: "Say! If I take this little place of yours, that advertisement for Hame will have to come down—what ever it is."—Boston Transcript.

CITY WILL REFUND EXCESS BANK TAXES TO LOCAL NATIONAL BANKS

Banks Were Illegally Assessed in 1920-21-22, and Agree to Accept Refund of One-Half of Amounts Paid by Them—Amounts to be Placed in Next Year's Tax Levy—Other Matters.

Mayor Walter P. Crane sent a communication to the common council Monday evening stating that he had entered into an agreement with the local national banks fixing the amount to be refunded by reason of the illegality of taxes assessed against the banks and paid in the years 1920-21-22, at one-half of the respective amounts paid by the banks. The amounts to be refunded are as follows:

National Ulster County Bank	$3,878 31
State of New York National Bank	4,640 94
First National Bank	8,706 41
Roadout National Bank	2,810 84

Mayor Crane stated also that he recommended that notes of the city be delivered to the banks for the respective amounts, said notes to be payable on March 15, 1924, and to bear interest from January 1, 1924, to be delivered upon the discontinuance of all litigation in reference to said taxes, and that said amounts were to be included in next year's tax levy.

The aldermen adopted a resolution carrying out the mayor's recommendations. The action taken by Kingston's authorities in refunding these bank taxes illegally assessed is along the same line as adopted in other cities of the state when the courts ruled that the assessments were illegal.

Tiger's Petition.

F. A. Tiger filed a petition with the council asking permission to operate an all-night bus service between the lower and upper ends of Kingston. The line would start operating at 12:05 o'clock in the morning and the last trip would be made just before 6 o'clock in the morning so as not to interfere with the running schedule of the trolley road. Mr. Tiger expects to charge a fare of 20 cents if his petition is granted.

Alderman Keating believed that the bus line should be extended through to Ponckhockie, and Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, who represents Mr. Tiger, stated he was willing to amend the petition to include covering both the Strand to Ponckhockie and North Front street to Washington avenue to the end of the car line. After some further discussion Alderman Martin's resolution that a public hearing be held in the matter on December 18, was adopted by a vote of 8 to 5.

Wants $350 for Horse.

F. A. Waters, Jr., of 60 Highland avenue, filed a claim amounting to $350 for the loss of a horse which fell on the Boulevard on October 19 of this year. Van Etten & Cook represent him. The claim was referred to the auditing committee and corporation counsel.

Sewer Assessments.

The council also adopted resolutions covering the collection of sewer assessments for the Johnston avenue sewer and the Tremper avenue sewer. The property owners interested are to pay 75 per cent of the amount which amounts to $572.74 on the Johnston avenue sewer and $703.45 on the Tremper avenue sewer.

Klemm's Petition Denied.

Edward Klemm's petition to operate a bus line between Kingston and Saugerties by way of Lake Katine and the Neighborhood Road was denied by a vote of 9 to 3. The granting of the petition was opposed by Ritch & Wortman, who have filed a petition with the public service commission covering that route and on which a hearing will be held in Albany on December 12.

The village board of Saugerties had denied permission to Ritch & Wortman to operate in the village, which was probably the main reason why the common council decided to deny Mr. Klemm's petition to operate over the city's streets. Attorney Clyde F. Gardiner appeared for Mr. Klemm and Attorney Thomas P. Coughlin for Ritch & Wortman.

Motions and Resolutions.

The following motions and resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards: By Aldermen Ryan, Everett and Buchholz—That aandescent light at corner of Clinton avenue and Greenkill avenue be replaced with an arc light as the intersection was not properly lighted.

Alderman Everett—That holes in Greenkill avenue be filled between Washington avenue and Wall street; that catch basin be built in northwest corner of Oak and Henry streets.

Alderman Van Wagenen—That traffic standard at Wall and North Front streets be immediately removed as it interfered with duties of traffic officer.

Alderman Macchold—That a light be placed on Marys avenue, between Benedictine Hospital and O'Reilly street as soon as possible as on November 29, a lady fell and sprained her ankle on that bad piece of road.

Alderman Beichert—That a police alarm box be installed in vicinity of Foxhall avenue and Gage street; that holes in O'Neil street be filled; that catch basin be placed corner Tremper avenue and Ardley street; that crosswalk at Progress and O'Neil streets be relaid; that property owners on south side of O'Neil street, between Bruyn avenue and Smith avenue, be compelled to relay sidewalks where trees have uprooted the flag stones.

Alderman Keating—That Kingston Gas & Electric Company clean lights in Fifth ward; that holes in North street, near Hutton's brickyard, be filled.

Alderman Cashman—That chief of police compel all bus lines to come to a stop before crossing any railroad crossing in city.

Alderman Everett—That sewer be extended from Washington Avenue up the Boulevard to the city line.

All of the aldermen were present at the session that evening.

Alderman-at-large-elect Edgar J. Dempsey was also present at the meeting and on motion of Alderman Cashman, who he defeated for the office at the November election, Mr. Dempsey was invited to a seat on the rostrum beside President Dittus.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere. The council then adjourned.

ODD CARVINGS IN CHURCH

All Work Done by the Warden in Edifice in South London as Just a Labor of Love.

A remarkable labor of love is the wonderful carving in the church of St. Saviour, Champion Hill, South London.

It is thirty years since the organ screen was carved by T. J. C. Coggin, the vicar's warden. It is a beautiful piece of work, on the north side of the church.

This he followed with a faldstool, at which the litany is said or sung. Then he carved the clergy and choir stalls and cased the organ. Later he provided a stand for the lectern.

There can be few churches in London, or indeed in other parts of the country, which can boast of such beautiful carving all done by one man purely as a labor of love.

For some time Mr. Coggin has been doing all sorts of work in the Warrior chapel, furnished in memory of the men of all creeds in the parish who fell in the war.

He has carved the names of the fallen, including that of his own son, on panels put up on the north and south sides of the altar. He has been busy on this task for twelve months, often working ten hours a day.

Perhaps his finest carving is to be seen on the font. The lettering around the base is in the form of a phrase which reads backward and forward alike. The characters are Greek. Translated freely, it reads, "Cleanse my transgression, not only my face." —London Tit-Bits.

Matthew Arnold's Ideals.

Arnold was true to his ideals in poetry. "The best that is known and thought in the world" was a happy phrase, but to him it was more than a phrase; it was a creed. His touchstones for poetry, seemingly so flexible, were in reality like steel. A slender line of Dante exposed, he thought, the glitter of Tennyson.

Arnold praised the ancients, but, unlike some of his brother poets, he read and studied them as well. He depended upon no contemporary poet for inspiration, unless it were Wordsworth, and such enthusiasms as Browning felt for Landor, or Swinburne for Rossetti, were unknown to him. His intimacies and his communion were with the past which endures. Compared with this, the present was as the fashion of this world which passeth away.—Stanley T. Williams in "Studies in Victorian Literature."

Her Answer.

It was one of those evenings when romance seems to hold the world in a light but firm grip. Outside, the leaves which but now had stood out so fresh and green, touched by the magic hand of spring, were turning to red and russet shades of gold. There was a touch of frost in the air, and inside the drawing room a fire was burning brightly in the grate.

On the ottoman Phyllis was reclining, her dainty toes stretched out to the blaze, her eyes now blue, now an iridescent gray in the flickering firelight. Kneeling by her side, one could vaguely discern the figure of the adoring Algernon.

"Darling," he whispered—"darling, will you marry me?"

"Yes," she replied dreamily—"yes; we have no bananas today!"

POLICE FORCE TO HAVE ITS OWN GYM AND BATHS IN CITY HALL

Common Council Direct Building Committee to Expend $1,000 in Fitting up Room on First Floor of Building—Mayor Crane and Police Board Favor Project.

Kingston's police force is to have its own, private gymnasium and shower baths in the very near future for the common council Monday evening authorized the building committee to expend a sum not exceeding $1,000 to furnish and equip the first floor of city hall for that purpose. Mayor Crane met with the building committee that evening before the regular council session and that the members of the police board and himself were in favor of the proposition.

The question of having a gym and shower baths in a convenient place has been discussed by the athletic inclined members of the police force for some time. For several years the members of the department have been attending a once a week gym class at the Y. M. C. A. This has been compulsory, as the board of police commissioners several years ago made the rule that every man on the force must attend the gym class unless prevented by illness.

The policemen say that attending a gym class but once a week is not enough and that in order to obtain any good effect attendance should be oftener and for that reason it would be an excellent plan to have a room fitted up for gym purposes in the building.

When the city engineer's department removed from the first floor of the city hall to the top floor and the board of health removed from its old office into the former city engineer's rooms it left the former health board room vacant, and the members of the department most anxious for the gym and shower baths took the matter up with Mayor Crane and asked if there was any objection to having the room fitted for the purpose desired.

Alderman Joy offered the resolution Monday authorizing the building committee to go ahead with the plans of equipping the room for gym purposes. The equipment will consist of boxing gloves, punching bag, chest weights, flying rings, medicine ball, Indian clubs and a few other articles, including a rowing machine. There will also be two small shower baths installed in the room.

The list of the above lens shown on the list designated as "A" and the list designated as "B" should be focused so that with the vehicle fully loaded on a level surface and the lamps focused, headlights are aimed so that the upper outline of the beam is on a level with the center of the lamps and is no higher than 42 inches above the level surface.

Carpets in Homer's Time.

Hundreds of years ago, when Europeans were living in houses with bare floors or floors strewn with rushes or twigs, carpets were being used in China, India and Egypt. The first carpets were rugs to sit upon, taking the place of chairs, says the Detroit News. In Homer's time, either plain or embroidered carpets were spread before the couches of the guests in Greek houses. Later on rich and gay carpets were imported to Greece from Babylon. These carpets had raised figures of men and animals and were made in gorgeous colors. In later Roman times carpets were imported from the Orient.

Rifle Has Done Its Bit.

When a private stationed at Fort Benning was engaged in cleaning a rifle which he had just drawn he pushed out a small roll of paper which contained the following message: "This rifle was used by Private Frank Webster 2010213, I Co, 125th Inf. I fired this point-blank at seven Germans, Oct 7, 1918, in an attack on the Kriemhilde Stellung during the Meuse-Argonne offensive. On Oct 11, 1918 I fired with this rifle 115 rounds while in the third battalion, 125th Inf. Gassed in the Death Valley near Geannes, France. Whoever draws this rifle can know it has done its bit."

The Cotton gin.

The cotton gin was a machine invented by Eli Whitney in 1793, by which the cotton-wool is separated from the seed and cleaned with great rapidity and ease. This invention led to such an increase in the cultivation of this staple that the United States soon exported one and one-half million pounds of cotton annually. Previous to the invention of the cotton gin the work was done by hand and proved to be a tedious process, since one person could clean only a pound or so a day. The invention of the cotton gin gave slavery the most powerful and insidious impulse that it ever received.

A Change of Air.

Hiram Skinnum was the village tightwad. He walked on his neighbor's front lawns to save his shoes. His wife had been ailing for years, and began growing weaker. There didn't seem to be much wrong with her except living with Hiram, but she sank so that at last he called the doctor. After long examination the doctor told Hiram: "She needs a change of air. Send her away." Hiram thought over the expense awhile and said: "Doc, you say she needs a change of air. I can't afford to send her away. But I'll tell ye what I'll do. I'll get her an electric fan."

REPORTS MADE TO SUPERVISORS

Expense For Relief of Widowed Mothers and Children Apportioned—$20,000 Needed by County Board of Auditors This Year.

Reports of committees and communications made up much of the business transacted by the board of supervisors at the session held at the supervisors' room Tuesday evening.

The committee on town and county accounts, Messrs. Elsworth, Hamilton and Williams, reported having examined the report of the Ulster County Board of Child Welfare for the year ending October 31, 1923, and have determined that the annual expenses for the relief of widowed mothers, and children in the several towns, and in the city of Kingston, and which are chargeable against said towns and city of Kingston, are as follows:

Esopus	$ 600.00
Gardiner	300.00
Lloyd	180.00
Marlborough	900.00
Rochester	90.00
Rosendale	360.00
Saugerties	680.00
Shandaken	300.00
Ulster	365.00
Wawarsing	270.00
City of Kingston	1,350.00

Total $5,870.00

And in addition, there has been expended for other purposes $69.24. Later the committee recommended that the several amounts be levied and assessed against the several towns and city of Kingston. Over the committee on county clerk and surrogate's accounts examined all claims and found same correct. Amount claimed, $1,372.25; allowed, $1,372.25. Received and filed.

The County Board of Auditors submitted their report of expenditures for the year beginning December 4, 1922, and ending December 4, 1923, as follows:

Court House	$ 6,008.02
Jail	1,782.54
Jail inmates	336.84
County Clerk's Building	1,335.75
Van Buren Building	1,013.56
Sheriff's Office	818.20
County Clerk as Register	1,593.44
Surrogate	176.53
County Treasurer	342.31
Supervisors' Expenses	695.81
County Judge	304.09
District Attorney	621.97
Commissioners, Election	678.40
Superintendent of Highways	257.19
County Attorney	174.47
Jail Physician	44.00

20 DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

County Sealer 40.76
Probation Officer 7.75

$16,931.43

There was a balance on hand December 4, 1922, of 53 cents; appropriation, $15,000; further sum received, $3,000; total, $18,000.53, leaving balance on hand, December 4, 1923, of $1,089.10. The committee recommended that there be appropriated $20,000 for the coming year, at the increased price of coal and the probable additional expense of paying chauffeurs on tractors during snow removal and other needed expenses will make it necessary for an increase in the appropriation for 1924. A motion was made later by Supervisors Snyder, Avery and Auchmoedy that there be appropriated $20,000 and paid to the county treasurer to be placed to credit of the county board of auditors. Over.

The annual report of the Ulster County Farm Bureau was presented, showing a membership of $95 and requesting an appropriation of $4,000, and the annual report of the Home Bureau was also presented, it showing a membership of $25 and asking an appropriation of $3,500. The reports were referred to the committee on appropriations.

A communication was read from the New York State Commission for relief of the blind, requesting a supplementary appropriation by the county of approximately $1,000. Referred to committee on appropriations.

Admiral Higginson was given the floor and spoke of the work of the local branch of the State Board of Charities. He was followed by Martha Davis, county agent for dependent children, who read her annual report. County Judge Joseph M. Fowler spoke of the excellent work of the county agent saying that her report was so full it would not be necessary for him to say much more. That as judge of the children's court he had come to know about the work and highly appreciated the work accomplished by County Agent Martha Davis and the Ulster County Committee of the State Charities' Aid Association. Considerable money was saved the county by her work which was exceptionally well done. Judge Fowler also spoke of the need of additional room at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and asked that a special committee be appointed by the board to investigate and report at the next meeting on the subject of improvement and devise steps to get state aid which is possible under a new law.

The acts to allow Esopus, Saugerties and Wawarsing to issue bonds which were read on Monday were brought up for final passage and became laws.

Supervisor Avery offered a resolution that rejected taxes in the several towns be placed on the tax rolls and collected by the collectors as taxes for the current year.

Supervisor E. Young offered a resolution that there be raised upon the town of Marlborough the sum of $1,020.20 to pay certificate and interest, for note given for town barn. Over.

A number of resolutions were called up and adopted.

On motion of Supervisor Shults the board of supervisors adjourned until Wednesday evening, December 5, at 7:30 o'clock.

FARM BUREAU ANNUAL REPORT

The report of Farm Bureau Manager Edward J. Chase for the year ended December 1, 1923, was submitted to the Farm Bureau annual convention at New Paltz today as follows:

I—Form of Organization.

The farm department of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau Association is organized on the foundation of the community. In 1923, 24 communities were represented in the Farm Bureau by 895 members, the members paying an annual dues of $1.00.

The manager meets with each local committee and with them works out the local programs. Each member of the committee assumes responsibility for a particular part of the local program for his community.

The Advisory Council and the Local Program—At least once a year all of the committees meet together in a body as an Advisory Council. At this time they consider the local programs and from them develop the county program.

The Executive Committee—The Executive Committee is composed of nine members of the farm department who are elected by the membership at the annual meeting.

It is the duty of the Executive Committee to administer the affairs of the farm department and to carry out the county program of work.

Relationship With Other Organizations—The Farm Bureau tries to cooperate in every proper way with other organizations that are working for the betterment of agricultural conditions.

Relationship of the Farm Bureau to farmers' business organizations has been clearly defined by a resolution passed by the Executive Committee. This resolution makes it the duty of the Farm Bureau to give information it has or can get to organizations requesting the same, but prohibits the Farm Bureau from taking any part in the actual business of such business organizations.

II—Program of Work.

A—Organization—The Farm Bureau is now working in twenty-one out of twenty-four communities with local committees and definite programs of work. These twenty-four communities had 895 members at an annual dues of $1.00.

This fall the Farm and Home Bureau cooperated in a series of community meetings in October. At each meeting a moving picture was shown on Farm and Home Bureau work. At these meetings the past year's work was gone over and plans for next year's work discussed. Sixteen of these meetings were held with an attendance of 557.

On November 8th, the Advisory Council was called together to sum up the year's work, plan the program for 1924 and to start the membership campaign.

On November 1st, bills for 1924 dues were sent out to the members. On November 12th, when the membership campaign started 302 members had paid their 1924 dues by mail. On November 12th, seven county men started out to canvass the old members for 1924 and to sign up new members. The actual canvassing work was completed on November 23rd with members paid up for 1924.

There still remains some clean up work to do in several communities which will increase this figure to some extent.

B—Orchard and Fruit Crops.

1—Spray Information Service.—The Farm Bureau again operated the Spray Information Service project with excellent success. Fifty-five growers paid in $25 each to support the service.

Charles C. Wagoner was employed as manager of the project and he was located in the Hugobush office of the Hudson River Fruit Exchange. Mr. Wagoner devoted his time to the orchards of the fifty-two men supporting the project.

When Mr. Wagoner advised by telephone the fifty-two men to spray, the message was checked with a circular letter. These letters were all sent to 480 members of the Farm Bureau who are fruit growers. There were 12 of these letters sent out with a total circulation of 20,150.

In addition to these letters a system of "twilight meetings" was worked out, whereby Mr. Wagoner held meetings in the early evening before dark in the orchards just prior to the time of applying the various sprays. These meetings were open to all of the fruit growers in the county. A total of 42 of these meetings were held with an attendance of 990.

2—Five Year Pruning Demonstrations.—Ten of the local committees have arranged for five year pruning demonstrations to be held this fall. Four of these demonstrations will be planned for the fourth year this fall.

The pruning demonstrations are located in the following communities: Clintonville, Hugobush, Modena, Plattekill, Ulster Park, Shawangunk, Milton, Marlborough, New Paltz, Wallkill, Flatbush.

3—Apple Thinning Demonstrations.—Five apple thinning demonstrations were scheduled to be held in the following communities: Clintonville, Milton, Marlborough, Modena, Plattekill, Ulster Park.

Owing to the fact that an exceedingly heavy drop occurred, it was found that it would only pay to thin one of the selected demonstration plots. This was at Clintonville on the farm of Melford Hurd.

4—Raspberry Mosaic Control.—Under this project Dr. Rankin, of the Geneva Station, assisted by Mr. Shear, of the same institution, rogued the plantings of new raspberry stock that were set out in the fall of 1922. Their investigation showed only an average of 1.2 percent mosaic in these new plantings.

No organized effort was made to get the growers to purchase more stock, the feeling being that the growers would be more interested in purchasing larger amounts of clean stock after watching developments in their new plantings a second year.

5—Fertilizer Tests.—The fertilizer tests on currants on the farm of W. J. Haviland at Marlborough was harvested for the third year this season. The three years' results are being compiled by the extension specialist in pomology at the state college and cannot be given at this time.

The fertilizer test on grapes on the farm of J. A. Driscoll at Milton was just started this past spring and records on the various plots were taken for the first time this fall.

6—Work With the Fruit Marketing Cooperatives.—The Farm Bureau has given advice to two of the three fruit marketing cooperatives in the county at various times during the year. It has also helped in the formation of the Hudson Valley Fruit Growers' Cooperative Association which is composed of five member local associations.

C—Live Stock.

1—Dairy Improvement Club.—The club started in October, 1922, with 17 members all of who were to weigh their milk and feed monthly and to send in their barn records to the Farm Bureau office every month. The office to compile the sheets and return them to the members. Eleven of the 17 men really started to keep their records and eight of the men completed their full year this fall.

The eight men have voted to continue the club another year and have added three new members, so that the second year was started in October with eleven members.

The club held four meetings during the year with speakers from the State College. In addition one of the men from the Animal Husbandry Department of the State College spent two days in the county visiting each individual member and going over his year's records with them.

The members of the club feel well satisfied with the results they have gotten from their first year's work.

2—Tuberculosis Eradication.—The tuberculosis situation has been under consideration for a long time by the Farm Bureau. This year the Ulster County Cattle and Horse Owners' Association, Inc., was organized to look after the testing work in the county.

The association employed Dr. H. F. Fleming as county veterinarian. The association has 30 members and Dr. Fleming tested 23 herds this fall up to the time the testing was stopped by the state officials owing to the exhaustion of indemnity funds. The 23 herds composed of 523 head of cattle showed up 183 reactors on the first test, or an average of 35 percent reactors.

3—Cooperation With Dairymen's League.—The Farm Bureau has cooperated with the Dairymen's League in the holding of their monthly meetings in various parts of the county during the year.

D—Crops and Soils.

1—Better Seed Corn Production.—Seven demonstrations in the growing of better seed of Cornell No. 12 were held in the following communities: Accord, Gardiner, Hurley, Kerhonkson, New Paltz, Wallkill, Stone Ridge.

The Cornell No. 12 variety is the best variety as shown up by our entomology corn variety tests for the past three years.

Four demonstrations in the growing of better seed of Cornell No. 11 were held in Accord, Clintonville, Kerhonkson, New Paltz. The men are all being given help in selecting seed for a seed plot next year and also in selecting seed for sale.

2—Oat Variety Demonstrations.—Four oat variety demonstrations were started in the following communities: Accord, Kerhonkson, Gardiner, Accord. Results were secured from three out of the four demonstrations. In the test at Accord, Cornellian stood up best, at Gardiner the Victor was the best while at Asbury Selection 713 was by far the best. The results are so different in the three demonstrations that they will be continued another year.

3—Potato Demonstrations.—On the farm of Gray Brothers at Kerhonkson certified Cobblers were compared to uncertified cobbler, the home grown seed yielding 43 bushels per acre, while the certified seed yielded 115 bushels per acre.

On the farm of T. M. Sullivan at New Paltz, certified Cobblers yielded 258 bushels per acre while seed home grown in 1922 from certified seed only yielded 205 bushels per acre. On the same farm certified Green Mountains yielded 421 bushels per acre while uncertified seed yielded 317 bushels per acre.

On the farm of Ed. Pilz at Hurley certified Russels yielded 322 bushels per acre while uncertified seed yielded 147 bushels per acre.

All of the above tests go to check up the results of the previous two years. This is a considerable increase in yield can be expected from the use of good certified seed.

The amount of certified seed potatoes coming into Ulster county has increased from nothing in 1920 to over 1,600 bushels in 1923.

At New Paltz the Farm Bureau assisted five of the larger growers of potatoes to purchase copper sulphate lime and arsenate of lead so as to mix their own potato spray materials and assisted them to mix some. As a result all of the men saved considerable money on spray materials and increased the efficiency of their spraying work.

4—Fertilizer Demonstrations.—On the farm of Calvin Freer at New Paltz, acid phosphate was compared to a mixed fertilizer on ensilage corn, the field being on sod and manure. The mixed fertilizer a 2-8-3 cost $4.89 per acre, produced 14 tons per acre, while the acid phosphate a cost of $3.16 per acre produced 13 tons per acre.

On the farm of Clarence Donahue at Tongsore a fertilizer comparison was made on flint corn as follows: Acid Phosphate and hen manure 67 bu. per A. Fertilizer cost $3.18 4-8-4

62 bu. per A. Fertilizer cost $5.70 2-8-10 and cow manure 55 bu. per A. Fertilizer cost $5.25 Acid Phosphate and cow manure 62 bu. per A. Fertilizer cost $3.18

5—Lime Test.—The five year old lime test on the farm of Ed. Hart at Modena, showed the lime plot 23 percent better than the unlimed plot. The lime was applied with oats and seeding in 1919 and the yields from the limed and unlimed plots have been taken every year since. The results for each year are given below:

Year	Lime	No Lime
1920	6552	4584
1921	7373	1205
1922	3536	2122
1923	2612	2152

Total 4 years 16433 10043

During the four years the limed plot has cut 16,433 pounds of hay while the unlimed plot has only cut 10,043 pounds over the five year period. For the last two years there has also been a great difference in the quality of the hay, the limed ground cutting a good quality of timothy while the unlimed was largely weeds.

E—Poultry.

1—Paid Culling.—The paid poultry culling project was handled entirely by local committees in 15 communities. These committees signed up 81 flocks in their 18 communities. The 81 flocks represented 15,553 birds out of which 4,730 birds were culled.

The Farm Bureau secured Raymond DuBols of Forest Glen to do the culling, work at a cost to the poultrymen of two cents per bird.

2—Poultry Judging Schools.—Two day poultry judging schools were held for the commercial poultrymen who already have a good working knowledge of culling.

Prof. Hurd of Cornell handled both of these schools which were held at Stone Ridge and New Paltz. At both schools, the poultrymen present worked on trap-nested birds which were loaned for the schools by Charles Weldner, Jr., of West Shokan and Raymond DuBols of Forest Glen. The attendance at the two schools were 50 poultrymen.

3—Poultry Tour.—A county poultry tour was held in cooperation with the poultry clubs and about 50 poultrymen attended. The tour visited a number of the plants in the county and ended with a dinner and a meeting at Accord at which Herman Walker, manager of the Atlantic Coast Poultry Producers Association spoke on Cooperative Poultry Marketing.

4—Cooperative Program of Poultry Clubs.—The Farm Bureau cooperated with the Wallkill Valley and Accord Poultry Clubs in carrying out a program of regular meetings throughout the year. Twelve meetings were held with an attendance of 463.

F—Farm Management.

A farm management survey was made in the community of Tongsore. The survey results will be used by the local committee in working out a permanent local program.

Twelve farm management meetings were held in the county. The subject discussed was the price situation and its probable future trend.

III—Character and Scope of Office and Field Service.

A major portion of our time has been devoted to carrying out the programs of work. Our future efforts must concentrate our work, both field and office, on reaching a larger number of members in every community with a part of the local program of work.

Speed of Radio.

You may not believe this, but it's true. A speaker in New York is heard by a radio fan in San Francisco before he is heard by the people in his own audience at the back of the hall in New York. This is because the audience hears by sound waves which travel only 1,126 feet a second, while the radio fan has the sound brought to him by vibrations traveling 186,000 miles a second. The difference in hearing time in this case is only a fraction of a second, but it's as uncanny as it's hard to believe.—Ex-change.

Still Protested.

One of a party of men left his seat in an already crowded train to go in search of something to eat, leaving a rug to reserve his place. On returning he found that, in spite of the rug and the protests of fellow-passengers, the seat had been usurped by a woman. With flashing eyes she turned upon him: "Do you know, sir, that I am one of the directors' wives?" "Madam," he replied, "were you the director's only wife I should still protest."

"The Christmas Store"

Our entire store is filled with beautiful and useful articles selected with great care to make Christmas shopping a delight. Why not make your purchases now while the selection is easier? We shall be very happy to keep your gifts for you until the day you ask to have them delivered. A visit to our store will convince you that we have JUST THE RIGHT THING for every one on your list.

OF COURSE, THERE ARE BOOKS—THOUSANDS OF THEM

And you know that a book is always a satisfactory gift. Both slim pockets and fat wallets will find attractive presents on our book counters. Is your friend fond of Joseph Conrad's novels? Get the new one—first novel in three years—"THE ROVER" by the greatest living artist in any art—Mr. Conrad.

Then, too, a charming gift would be "The Highland Clans of Scotland" by Eyre-Todd, beautifully illustrated with one hundred and twenty-two plates in color. These are only two suggestions but we have so many that it would be impossible to list them.

Also a complete assortment of Prayer Books, Hymnals, Bibles and Rosary Beads. In our Art Department there are Christmas Greeting Cards, and Christmas Enclosure Cards, also a sample book of Personal Greeting Cards. Orders for engraved greeting cards, etc., must be given NOW or it will be too late to promise them for Christmas gifts.

Rust Craft Novelties

Have made a decided hit this year. The thought expressed on the packages gives them a character all their own, and then, too, the articles inside these individual Gift Boxes are so useful. If you are looking for a real handsome gift, why not get a piece of the stunning Hawkes' Mosaic Glass in black, green, amber, tangerine or Colonial blue? Everyone is charmed with it.

Something worthwhile and very handsome, too, is an article of

BORGMAN AGAIN LEADING SCORER

Teams in Metropolitan League Getting in Shape For Ending of First Half Season and Beginning of the Second—Trenton Here This Evening.

With the majority of teams in the Metropolitan League getting their array of talent in shape for a flying finish toward the completion of the first half of the season, and in readiness for the opening of the second, the closeness of the battles are beginning to be of almost night occurrence. Last week Kingston and Yonkers engaged in two overtime exhibitions and Paterson and Trenton in one. This condition is indicative of balanced strength throughout the circuit.

Borgman regained his place as pacemaker in the point scoring race, although any slight lapse on his part will permit either Brennan or Banks of the Brooklyn to step right out. Benny, after a poor beginning, is making his sensational long shots count with consistent regularity in each game. Leo Malone, the last of the regular players to remain from being shut out in field goals, was stopped by Eddie Dolan of Kingston last Saturday after a streak of thirteen games. The hoodoo number proved too much for lanky "Hi."

Kennedy, Russell and Sedran of Yonkers have been suspended for breaking their contract with Manager Ryan. The three of them have decided to play basketball in the middle west.

This evening the Trenton team plays the Morgenweck squad at the local armory court.

Coach Charlie Moran

Coach Charlie Moran is given credit for contributing largely to the popularity of Centre college. Back in 1915, when the "Praying Colonels" started the football climb that was eventually to land them in the position of victors over Harvard and make Bo McMillan one of the army of Kentucky colonels, the enrollment of the entire college was 72.

Then came the period of football ascendancy and the spreading of the realization "Centre" meant something besides a position on a football team. This year there were 82 candidates on hand for the football team, more than the entire number in the college eight years ago. Moran is a National league umpire during the baseball season.

Spitball Hurling Fast

Fading in Big Leagues

The day of the spitball pitcher is fast passing. In the American league Red Faber and Stanley Coveleskie, two of the stars, are beginning to show the wear and tear of the spitball. A sore arm kept Coveleskie out of the game for the last six weeks of the season and cost Cleveland second place. Faber was also ailing during the closing month, yet he came through with a well-pitched game in the Chicago series, beating the Cubs.

Shetlander Not a Scot.

The practice evasion among cartographers of sticking Shetland in the corner of the map of Scotland has misled people into thinking of Shetland as a piece of Scotland that has broken loose. Few realize that Shetland lies farther north than Christiania, Stockholm and Petrograd, to say nothing of the Sea of Okhotsk. The inhabitants are mainly Scandinavians—for one whose name begins with a "Mac" there are a dozen whose names end with a "son," otherwise "sen"—and the Shetlander, so far from esteeming himself a Scot, is hurt if you call him one. He has a shrewd and pardonable suspicion that the Scot was about the last man his ancestors should have trusted themselves with in the dark ages.—Detroit News.

SOME TRADES LIKELY BY MANAGER HUGGINS

Building for Future Is Task Imposed on All Pilots.

The statement that Miller Huggins recently made, saying that he would not make any changes in the Yankees' lineup, should not be taken too seriously. While none of the mainstays of the team are in danger of being replaced by new talent, it seems likely that several changes will be forthcoming next year when the bell rings.

Building for the future is one of the tasks imposed on every baseball manager, and Huggins is too learned in the ways of championship ball clubs to regard past success as any guaranty to future triumphs. Age annually exacts its toll among major leaguers, and the Yankees, in spite of their impressive performance in the recent world's series, cannot be regarded as immune from the call of Father Time. Huggins knows the infallible signs of fading greatness, and his only course is to strengthen by making changes. A player turned adrift from a championship club gets much sympathy from a public which forgets for the moment that a manager is paid to produce a winning ball club.

Huggins can be expected to be as alert for playing strength this winter as he was during the off season a year ago, when his team seemed so badly in need of shaking up after the sad showing in the 1922 series. He traded no regulars then, but he offered some of his regulars in trades which did not materialize. It is safe to say that with possibly three or four exceptions Huggins would talk trade now for any of his 1923 world's champions. That is the way of baseball, a game in which standing pat is akin to slipping backward. John McGraw traded one of his brightest stars, George Burns, after the 1921 series and never again used as a regular the player who was the scintillating luminary in that triumph over the Yankees—Johnny Rawlings. Yet McGraw's 1922 team won another world's title. So do not be surprised if Huggins swings a deal involving one or more of his 1923 regulars. Standing pat has its dangers.

Watch his stride!

by the Veteran Motorist

TWENTY years ago I used to be somewhat of a runner myself, and back in the home town, they still talk about the mile handicap I won at the County Fair in 5:01 flat, on a dirt track, with flat-heel shoes. Some record it was! Until last summer, I thought that I was some runner—until I saw Joie Ray in competition.

Some runner that boy! At the sound of the gun he was off, and away from the crowd in the first 100 yards. There he stayed, away up in front, either making the pace or pushing the leader so hard that it was only a question of time before he must break. How Joie did kill off that field and race home a winner, with never a falter, never a break in that marvelous stride.

I have always thought that Socony Gasoline was a good deal like a Joie Ray.

Take it at the start, in the welter of traffic, how quickly it puts you in the lead! How soon you settle down to a strong, tireless pace. How often you pass the other fellow and never see him again; always how powerfully and fast it brings you home to your journey's end.

Taking a car over the road is exactly like running a long distance race. Your gasoline must have a quick start, plenty of pull for the middle stretches, stamina and power for the finish. Socony has them all.

VITAMINES NEEDED BY FISH

Fresh Water Shrimp Diet Make Grayling Trout Extremely Lively In Montana Stream.

Fish to become gamey require vitamins the same as human beings do to have pep.

This has just been demonstrated by hatchery officials in the course of their United States government fish ten-year program of experimental work in stocking the glacier fed lakes of Glacier National park with the principal species of trout.

Up to date 3,000,000 brook, black-spotted, rainbow, cutthroat, Dolly Varden and grayling varieties have been planted in a hundred streams and lakes of the Montana wonderland.

Nature seemed to provide a well-balanced diet for all except the grayling, to the disappointment of Uncle Sam's fish experts. They did not propagate properly. They got sluggish and kept dying off until the fish dietists discovered there must be something lacking in the natural food of the grayling.

Careful study of the situation revealed there was a single item missing from their bill of fare. So the hatchery caterers added to the finny tribes' menu a Latin entree—gammurus pulex—which means just fresh-water shrimp. These were served in such large orders that they multiplied thousands of times faster than the greedy trout could devour them.

Two seasons of eating this morsel added so many calories to the grayling's diet that they now are giving light-rod anglers the battles of their sporting lives. Graylings are on the rampage. They are seen leaping up the swiftest rapids, where no fish ever tried to navigate.

Last summer they were even taken on the fly up the streams as far north as the Belly river country, just south of the Canadian border. And on the placid Rocky mountain lakes they are splashing so many rings with their acrobatic performances that it looks as if they are churning the waters with a program of "dally dozen" exercises just to work off surplus energy.

MADE AN OLD POWER SYMBOL

Has Never Failed to Restore Order in the House of Representatives.

In the chamber of the house of representatives at Washington stands one vivid reminder of parliamentary customs of the Middle Ages. It is the mace, which is borne into the chamber just before a sitting of the house begins and which must invariably stand upright on its marble pedestal at the right of the speaker while the house is in session.

When the house goes into committee of the whole and the speaker leaves the chair to be succeeded by the chairman of the committee, the mace is lowered. In case the committee meeting is interrupted by the arrival of a message from the President, the house cannot legally sit again until the mace is elevated.

When any serious disorder occurs in the house the speaker directs the sergeant-at-arms to quell it. This official then takes the mace from its pedestal and advances with it before him to ward the offending legislators. As a symbol of dignity and power it has never failed to bring quelling members to their senses reminding them of the responsibilities of lawmakers.

The mace is a bundle of ebony rods bound with silver bands and surmounted with a large silver globe on which rests an eagle with wings outstretched. It is similar to the fasces of ancient Rome, from which the Italian fascists take their name.

HER ENGAGEMENT RING

She tries to seem unconscious.
But her glances cling
To the hand on which she wears it—
Her engagement ring!

Her eyes are pools of gladness.
And her pulses skip
It's a symbol of the future—
Her engagement ring!

The whiteness of its sparkle
The soul she'll bring
To the one who gave it to her—
Her engagement ring!

And the merry little flashes
That the sunbeams fling
When they hover there upon it—
Her engagement ring—

Are the countless joys awaiting
As the swift days wing
When a band of gold she'll wear with
Her engagement ring!

TENNYSON RUDE TO GUEST

Invited One of His Admirers to Luncheon and Then Refused to Talk to Her.

Tennyson gained a reputation in his later years for rudeness. It was due perhaps to his dislike of intrusions upon his solitude. When the mood was upon him he was apt to disregard entirely the conventionalities.

A neighbor of the poet laureate once asked if he might bring to Aldworth a woman who was visiting in his home. She was well known in society. It was carefully explained to Tennyson that the woman had a great admiration for the poet's works and desired very much to see him. Tennyson assented quite readily, telling the neighbor to bring her to luncheon and named the day. When the day arrived the poet had forgotten all about it and as it happened, was in one of his solitary moods.

The woman was introduced; Tennyson bowed. Luncheon was announced and they went in; she sat next her host, who throughout the meal did not utter a word. At the end of it he retired in silence to his own room and the woman left the house, to which she had made her pilgrimage in hope and reverence, not having heard so much as the sound of the poet's voice.—Kansas City Star.

Scratch, scratch, scratch!
The sound made by Convict 401 was barely audible, so carefully did he work. The stone wall of his cell was hard and resisting, but the blade was stout, and persistence might finally turn the trick.

Scratch, scratch, scratch!
He had been sent up for polygamy. By a strange coincidence all four of his wives had been large physically, with red hair—yes, all four of them—and tempers to match.

Scratch, scratch, scratch!
Night after night he had worked away; suddenly he stopped with a low cry of triumph. He was convinced. "Good old wall!" he muttered. "It stands the test. They can't get at me."—Exchange.

New Aerial Flyers.

An Ohio aeronautical engineer, it is said, has built a "biplane-plane," weighing less than 100 pounds and operated by foot power, which has flown successfully at McCook field, Dayton. Even more remarkable is a kite-like glider, constructed in Europe. Although weighing only ten pounds and capable of being folded up and carried on the back, this albatross is said to have remained in the air for almost an hour on several occasions.—Popular Science Monthly.

Institute for Breeding.

An institute for the breeding of animals and one for the study of plant production have recently been completed at the University of Goettingen. The next addition to this fast-growing university will be a department for the study of agricultural machines, with an additional professor especially trained to take charge of the new field of work.

EARLY THRIFT A NECESSITY WITH MANY PRESIDENTS

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

If you would learn a lesson in the constructive values of thrift, study the lives of our Presidents.

John Adams taught school as a young man to obtain money for his education in the law. Zachary Taylor labored as a boy on his father's southern plantation and had practically no early educational advantages. Millard Fillmore worked as a village school teacher and borrowed the money to enable him to study law.

The early struggles of Abraham Lincoln and the disadvantages under which he became one of the greatest men of all time, are known the world over. As a boy Lincoln, "the rail-splitter," worked for ten years on his father's farm and it is said that all of his schooling amounted to only one year.

Andrew Johnson came from a poor family in North Carolina and as a boy was apprenticed for ten years to a tailor, during which time he taught himself to read and write.

James A. Garfield had practically no educational advantages as a young man and was compelled to maintain himself early in life by the hardest of farm labor. At one period he earned his livelihood by driving a team of mules for a canal boat.

Warren G. Harding started life doing chores on a farm in Ohio. For several years he earned his livelihood as a typesetter, school teacher, insurance agent and newspaper reporter.

Calvin Coolidge's first job was a chore boy on his father's farm. He worked his way through college part of the time. His vacations all were spent in earning money.

One might easily add to the list of our Presidents who have learned the value of thrift as an element of success. Hayes, Cleveland, McKinley and Wilson learned its value out of the book of their own early struggles.

These are not new facts. Every school boy should know them. Every young man beginning a business career should be reminded of these splendid examples of obstacles overcome.

The lives of most really successful men constitute our best lessons in thrift.

Hot Springs, Ark., is widely noted for the hot waters that flow from 72 springs, included in a space of ten acres on the west side of Hot Springs mountain. The waters of these springs range in temperature from 70 to 157 degrees F., and are especially beneficial in the treatment of chronic diseases. In 1832 four sections of land were set off by congress as a government reservation. Since then the government has established on the mountain the Army and Navy General hospital.

GUARD GRAND JURY AT CATSKILL

Stranger Finds Out That Probe Would Have to Start Anew if One Juror Was Put Out of Way.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Catskill, Dec. 5.—Steps to safeguard members of the grand jury probing the strangling last August at Windham of seven-year-old Howard Rothberg of Newark, N. J., were taken today by Sheriff Albert W. Pierce, following the activities of another mysterious stranger interested in the case.

The stranger appeared at the county court house and evinced more than a passing interest in the jurors, their hours of duty and their whereabouts at night. He asked a deputy sheriff, Pierce was quoted as saying, what may happen if one of the grand jurors were suddenly to die. The official, unsuspecting told him that would mean the end of the inquiry and the starting anew of the investigation.

Word of the presence of the stranger reached the jurors. One of them asked that Pierce arm members of the jury. Guards armed with rifles patrolled the vicinity of Sheriff Pierce's home all night, following a reported attempt to kidnap Anna Sobin, 16 year old nurse girl and a star witness in the case. The girl is a "guest" at the home of Sheriff Pierce.

SAUGERTIES EDUCATION BOARD HOLDS MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Saugerties Board of Education was held Monday evening and the following members were present: Dr. Luther Emerick, R. B. Overbagh, John T. Washburn, Mrs. John A. Snyder, Mrs. George B. Snyder and J. W. Frankel. President Emerick was in the chair. Collector Ernest Hassinger reported having collected taxes to the amount of $40,160.78, and that the tax uncollected amounted to $224.77. The report, on motion, was accepted and the bondsmen of Mr. Hassinger ordered released.

The resignation of John C. Shults as member of the board was presented, this action being necessary in view of Mr. Shults having been elected supervisor, and the law prohibiting his holding the office of supervisor and school trustee simultaneously. Mr. Shults' resignation was accepted with regret.

On motion D. Leslie Maxwell, a former member of the board, was unanimously elected a member of the board to succeed Mr. Shults.

Representative Leonidas C. Dyer, of Missouri, has a new plan for the enforcement of the prohibition amendment, advocating nearly real beer of 2.75 strength, and using the tax from this to enforce the balance of the dry law. He believes that if beer were sold three-quarters of the people would favor the dry law.

How Sunspots Affect Earth.

If you stir an open fire in a grate and bring fresh coals to the front, it gives out a warmer glow. It is the same way with the sun, says Dr. C. G. Abbot, in charge of the astrophysical observatory of the Smithsonian Institution. The so-called sunspots are produced by a stirring of the sun's outer layer. By comparing measurement of solar radiation with photographs of the sun he has found that there is an increase in heat radiated by the sun on the same day that sunspots form, grow or are brought into view on the visible disk of the sun by rotation.

The "Rosetta Stone."

Upon the "Rosetta Stone" was inscribed in hieroglyphics, in demotic writing, and in Greek, a decree of the Egyptian Ptolemy V Epiphanes (205-181 B. C.). After reciting the numerous benefits conferred by Epiphanes upon his country as well as upon the temples and the clergy, it provides that the king's statue shall be placed in the sanctuary of every temple and that divine honors shall be paid to him. It is further provided that a copy of the decree, inscribed upon a steel of hard stone, shall be placed in every temple of the first and second rank.

The Human Hair.

The length of life of the hair varies with age, sex, character of hair and individual peculiarities. Each hair has its determined length of life, and this is not the same for every hair of the same sort. The rate of growth, especially in young women, is from 2 to 5 mm., or about 1/4 to 1/2 inch, during each of the first ten days of growth, or about 3/4 to 1 inch a month. When it reaches a length of 10 to 14 inches its rate of growth is reduced one-half and later toward the end of its normal life its increase is hardly perceptible.

Stellar Habits.

There are actors who are prone to take the best of every scene unto themselves. One who has a naughty reputation in this respect has left the comedienne now playing opposite him so short of opportunities to amuse the audience that one night she was overheard muttering bitterly: "It's lucky he's not a ventriloquist. He'd never give the dummy the answers."—New York Herald.

Clock 600 Years Old.

One of the most wonderful clocks in the world is to be seen in the cathedral at Wells, England. It was made by a monk exactly 600 years ago. The hours are indicated by the appearance of a number of armed figures on horseback. They meet in a kind of charge, the striking of their lances sounding the chimes for the hour.

Trains Pick Up Water in Motion.

Fast trains do take water while in motion. There is a long trough between the rails at certain places along the track, and there is a small spout under the tender which slopes to the front. The fireman lowers this when an engine approaches a water trough and the water is forced by the speed of the train up the spout and into the tank.

No Wool on Wild Sheep.

Wild sheep are not clad in wool like the domestic animals of that name, but have their coats resembling those of the deer family, says Nature Magazine. Those who are unfamiliar with the appearance of the wild species are very apt to mistake the ewes for goats. The skin of the "Big Horn" is thin and porous and does not make good leather.

Origin of Word Potomac.

There are at least three explanations of the origin of the word "Potomac": (1) That it is derived from "Pethamook," which means "they are coming by water." (2) It is a derivative of "Potowamenc," which means "to make a fire in a place where fires are usually made." (3) The word is supposed to mean "a river of swans."

COOLIDGE WINS IN SOUTH DAKOTA

But If He Accepts Nomination He Must Run on Hiram Johnson's Platform Endorsing Soldiers Bonus—McAdoo Beats Ford Overwhelmingly—Both Platforms Dry.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Pierre, S. D., Dec. 5.—A tangled situation, with a candidate of one faction facing a platform written by those who opposed him confronted South Dakota Republicans today, following the action of their state proposal convention in naming President Coolidge as the Republican presidential candidate and adopting the platform framed by supporters of Senator Hiram Johnson.

By the state law, the candidate selected must file in writing with the secretary of state a signed declaration of his willingness to qualify, if nominated and elected, and to adhere to the principles proclaimed in the platform.

The Johnson platform calls for repeal of Esch-Cummins guaranty clause, approval of the soldier bonus, and conscription of wealth for war purposes. If President Coolidge refuses to sign by January 1, the law forbids his name going on the primary ballot.

The Democratic situation was more clear, with McAdoo an eight to one winner over Ford, when Ford supporters withdrew after defeat of their proposal to fuse with the Farmer-Labor party.

The dry enforcement plank of the Democratic platform was not tampered with, despite rumors that leaders in the Ford camp were wet. Both party platforms had a strong prohibition enforcement clause.

Senator Robert La Follette, choice of the Farmer-Labor party as presidential nominee, was named by a vote of 35,989 to 7,147 over Ford and the platform picked for him had for its summary: "Government ownership of transportation, natural resources and banks."

Farmer-Laborites in their platform demanded a five year moratorium for farm mortgages, government issue and control of all money and credit and repeal of the Esch-Cummins law.

Hope of fusion between the Democratic and Farmer-Labor parties vanished when the latter named Tom Ayers as senatorial candidate, ending conferences of joint committees of the two conventions. The Democrats then named U. S. G. Cherry of Sioux Falls.

Governor W. H. McMaster was the Republican senatorial choice winning over Senator Sterling by 3,000 votes.

LEGEND OF FAMOUS STONE

Sovereign Went Wherever Coronation Stone Was Carried, Scotch Belief.

The stone which is called the Coronation stone in England, to most visitors probably the most interesting thing in Westminster abbey, has another and much more ancient name. Its true name is Gaelic—Lith Phatlach, which means in English the "Gray Stone Pillow."

Now, it is certain that Queen Victoria firmly believed that the British royal house descended from King David, and, therefore, from Jacob himself, and that the stone upon which she received her crown was the identical one upon which he rested his head at Bethel when he dreamed of ascending and descending angels and heard of the future greatness of the nation he should found.

The stone is also called the Stone of Destiny. Doubtless this name, or the tradition it enshrined, was the reason that prompted the astute Edward I to carry it from its ancient site at Scone to his own capital of London and deposit it in St. Edward the Confessor's chapel. It has remained there ever since, except for a brief ceremony—the installation of Oliver Cromwell as lord protector in Westminster hall.

But why the Stone of Destiny? Well, not only had all the ancient kings of Scotland, from the remotest dawn of Scottish history, been crowned on this stone, but it was firmly believed that whosoever this stone went there would go the sovereignty.

That was "exactly" what Edward sought, so he carried off the Stone of Destiny. Doubtless, he also believed that this "disaster," as the Scots regarded it, would break the spirit of the northern kingdom. In this, of course, he was greatly mistaken, as Bannockburn abundantly proved.

There was another reading of the legend, however. It was this—that wherever the stone went there a Scot should rule. And, with the death of Elizabeth, the crown of England devolved upon a pure Scot, James VI of Scotland becoming James I of Great Britain and Ireland. It is, too, by virtue of his Stuart blood that King George sits today on the throne of Britain.

Since the day that Edward I carried the Stone of Destiny from Scone and deposited it in the abbey every English sovereign, with one exception, has been crowned upon it. That one exception was Mary, the unhappy daughter of Henry VIII and Katherine of Aragon—London Answers.

Isle Is Drunkard's Haven.
On the eastern coast of England is a tiny island called Osea. It is about a mile and a half long and three-quarters of a mile wide. It is a delightful little retreat, covered with meadow land and charming old elm trees—an ideal place for bathing and sea fishing.

This island has a history that dates from the time of Edward the Confessor and from that time it has always had a "king" and a small population. The present "king" is the son of a brewer who refused to continue in that business. In doing this he sacrificed more than a million dollars, it is said, and has converted the island into a retreat for drunkards. His efforts have met with considerable success, for the isolation and the bracing air have worked wonders.—Buffalo News.

DINOSAUR EGGS REACH GOTHAM

Head of Museum Pleased With Find in Mongolia—12 Skeletons Found.

New York.—Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, returned from a trip to Mongolia full of enthusiasm over the third year's work of the expedition to the Gobi desert, which produced 25 dinosaur eggs, 72 dinosaur skulls, 12 complete dinosaur skeletons and 15 tons of fossils of many kinds.

"It was the most successful and best equipped expedition I have ever known," said Doctor Osborn. He credited the results of the expedition largely to the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews, who also arrived here with the dinosaur eggs and the story of the achievements of three years in the Gobi.

Doctor Osborn was interested but skeptical about an English report suggesting a rival nest of dinosaur eggs had been found in the Ashdown Sands in England. These were reported by George Abbott in Nature of October 13 and described as detached, round, spherical masses ten to thirty inches in diameter. The conjecture was put forward that these were reptilian eggs like that of the Iguanodon, a giant dinosaur.

Doubts They Are Dinosaur Eggs.
Doctor Osborn was extremely doubtful these would prove to be real dinosaur eggs. Those found in the Gobi desert, which are the first on record, carried their own evidence in the skeleton of one unhatched dinosaur. Mr. Osborn confirmed reports that leaders of the expedition were eager to resume the expedition next year and to specialize this time on the search for the remains of primitive man.

Doctor Osborn made an inland journey to Iren-dubutai in eastern Mongolia, 400 miles north of Peking, where he studied the fossil formations on the spot and strengthened his opinion that this general region was that in which the main lines of animals and the human stock had developed.

Because the ancestors of the dog, horse, cow and other of the first domesticated animals have been found in this part of the world, Doctor Osborn and his colleagues have held the theory that it was in this region that primitive man first reached the stage of civilization where he was able to domesticate animals.

Home of Many Reptile Stocks.
The first men are believed to have migrated or "radiated" from here to all parts of the world, probably reaching North America while there was still a direct land connection between Asia and Africa. The 15 tons of fossils are said to include other evidence that Mongolia was the homeland of many animal and reptile stocks.

The transport service of the expedition consisted of 70 camels, three small automobiles and two motor-trucks. The camels carried the gasoline and the wool of the animals supplied the material in which the specimens were packed. At one time the party went without flour because their supply was needed for a paste for the protection of the eggs. Doctor Osborn's ship left Tokyo for Kobe just 20 hours before the earthquake.

Expert Card Player

Victim of Aphasia

Kearney, W. Va.—Police and charity department officers are puzzled over the case of a young man suffering from aphasia who is being cared for at the county jail in Weston. He appeared recently near Burlington, acting queerly. It was discovered that his mind was a blank as to his past.

He has handsome features and the manners of one well bred. He is about twenty-seven years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, and weighs 150 pounds. He is being allowed much freedom in the hope that he may perform some action or say some word that will provide a clue to his identity.

Evincing interest when he saw jail attendants playing seven up, the stranger was invited to sit in. He did so and to the astonishment of both himself and the other players he proved himself an expert at the game.

Finds Fugitive Father After Search of Years

New York.—A nation-wide search of several years for her father ended for Miss Bertha Lubinsky of Richmond, Ind., when detectives arrested, at an apartment in the Bronx, Bernette Lubinsky, whom the young woman identified as her parent. He deserted her mother, herself and four other children at Richmond eight years ago, she alleged. Lubinsky was said to be wealthy.

When arrested on a warrant signed by Gov. Warren T. McCray of Indiana, charging him with being a fugitive from justice, Lubinsky denied the accusation, and said he never had seen the young woman who insisted she was his daughter.

Considering that the population of the United States is made up of virtually all nationalities, it is a surprising fact that only two presidents have borne other than British surnames. These are both Dutch: Van Buren and Roosevelt.

Cuts Slice Off Side of Mountain

New York.—A slice is being taken off the side of a mountain at Garrison, N. Y., to make room for a four-track route on the New York Central railroad. The slice is being made with drills and steam shovels to relocate the tracks and get them away from the shore of the Hudson river, where landslides have been dropping off a precipitous ledge into deep water below. The relocation is east of the river at a safe distance from the bank.

Chief Engineer George W. Kirtledge has been directing the work of repairing the roadbed at the point where recent slides of newly laid rock and earth menaced the southbound track. Both main tracks are now protected against undermining.

He declared that his wife whacked him with a club whenever he approached her.

Snaps Camera as Boy Drowns

Lenmon, S. D.—"What a pretty picture," exclaimed Mrs. Anna Mahon as she saw her son, Clayton, nine years old, splashing in Ormond lake, near here. While the lad was splashing water and screaming at the top of his lungs, the mother ran to her motor-car, got her camera, and took a picture. She didn't realize she had photographed a tragedy. The child drowned.

LIGHTNING CAUSES MANY FOREST FIRES IN WEST

War on Hornets With Firebrands Also Caused Blazes.

Olympia, Wash.—Lightning would scarcely be ascribed by the western Washington residents generally as one of the prolific causes of forest fires in Washington, yet the record of the fire season in the counties of Pend Oreille and Stevens, as reported by Ted S. Goodyear, assistant state supervisor of forests, who has just returned from spending the season in charge of the fire protection work of that district, shows that 20 fires were started in the two counties by lightning.

This appeared to be the thunderstorm center of the state, however, and only a small number of lightning fires were reported from all other sections.

The northwest corner of the state, with its hot drying winds and great number of small logging operations, is one of the worst tinder boxes of the state, and got off exceptionally easy this season despite the 114 fires reported. Of these, 64 were in Pend Oreille county and 50 in Stevens. In the former county 937 acres were burned over, including 47 acres of timber, and in Stevens 2,935 acres were singed, including 650 acres of timber. Financial losses were small, however. Logging is on a smaller scale than on the west side, and, with smaller operations, horses and not donkey engines are used exclusively for the handling of the logs in the woods.

Another curious major cause of forest fires in that section this season was the burning out of hornets' nests. Hornets were thicker in the woods, Mr. Goodyear reports, than ever known before and loggers and campers waged war with the firebrand, in consequence of which eight fires got a start that caused trouble.

For the most part, however, the fires were ascribed to campers and tourists, land clearings, cigars and cigarettes, matches, carelessly dropped, while eight were held of incendiary origin.

MRS. CHARLES SAYS THAT JOE DOES NOT SUPPORT HER.

Wife Had World War Hero Arrested—Hearing on Monday.

Joseph Charles was arrested Tuesday evening by Officer Ray Saelhoff on a warrant obtained by Mrs. Charles of No. 34 Ann street, who claims that her husband fails to provide for her support. This morning in police court Charles was represented by Attorney W. D. Brinnler, Jr., while Attorney Isidor Sampson appeared for the wife. An adjournment was taken until Monday morning.

Mr. Charles during the World War placed Ulster county on the map when single-handed he captured a German machine gun nest and twenty prisoners for which feat he was awarded the distinguished service medal by the government.

TAKE NOTICE that the annual meeting of stockholders of The Ulster and Delaware Railroad Company will be held at the general office of the company, 22 Ferry Street, City of Kingston, N. Y., on December 11th, 1923, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of electing directors of the company for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. Dated, Kingston, N. Y., November 25, 1923.
HARRY H. FLEMING, Secretary.

Mrs. James A. Stillman, successful defendant in the sensational divorce action brought by her husband, formerly president of National City Bank of New York, America's greatest financial institution, who declared her baby, Guy, was the son of Fred Beauvillier, a Canadian Indian, has received a letter from Mrs. Flo Leeds, who of his son, "Sturdy." Mrs. Leeds, now a saleswoman in a New York shop, asked Mrs. Stillman's patronage, as she is working on a mission basis to support herself and her son.

ANY NURSES GRADUATE AT CITY HOSPITAL

Kingston, N. Y., December 22, 1922. The annual meeting of the Kingston City Hospital Nurses' Association was held at the City Hospital, Kingston, N. Y., on Tuesday evening, December 19, 1922. The program was presented by the following: Judge Parker and Judge Betts addressed the class of four, the Misses Dickson, Costello, Barton, and Aringer and Dr. Stern presented the school's annual report.

At the graduation exercises of the training school for nurses of the City of Kingston Hospital, held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Tuesday evening, diplomas were awarded to the Misses Martha Dickson, Bessie Costello, Flora Barton, and Madeline Aringer.

As the orchestra played the opening number of the program, the board of managers, the Hon. James A. Betts, president; Edward Corry, vice president; E. E. Norwood, M. D., secretary; H. H. Flemming, treasurer; A. A. Stern, M. D., George Chandler, M. D., Edward T. McGee, M. D., George Burgevin, Delancey Matthews, preceded the graduating class as all took their places on the carpeted platform.

Judge Betts presided. Prayer was offered by the Rev. William H. Fisher, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, after which the Hon. Alton S. Parker addressed the graduates.

After greeting the graduates, the managers and staff members of the hospital and his old friends and neighbors, Judge Parker addressed the young women, saying: "Only a little over three hundred years old since the first settlement in Virginia, followed by the Plymouth Colony, but a youth which has seen almost superhuman progress in the world. From those pioneer days to the present time, there have been school houses and churches, colleges and universities, and later hospitals to mark every step of settlement or the growth of the cities. Today, however, the hospitals of this country are not surpassed in all the world as to service to humanity. But all of the colossal work which we record today, after three hundred years, are the result of hard work now, and of the almost insurmountable hard work of our earliest settlers. They were most interested in building homes, raising families, living their own lives, holding to their own religion, making good to their neighbors, those are all things men and women should be engaged in today, nor should they disregard the accompanying responsibility and hard work, for to do so disregard responsibility and hard work is indeed a misfortune to any people. While for men and women to marry and bear children is the normal thing to do, all cannot marry for various reasons, but where marriage is not the end of the dream, it is a blessing second words for a woman to have a vocation, especially such a noble vocation as nursing to turn to."

Judge Parker sounded a note of warning as he called attention to Madison Grant's book, "The Passing of the Great Race," meaning, of course, the white race. And why is "passing"? Because being the strongest, the most dominating, becoming competition by the colored races, it is fighting among its own people and destroying its very self, look at the killing off of the youth at the white race in the World War! In the other hand there is indeed a "Rising Tide of Color," meaning the dark races. So if we may not add to the growth of the white race, at least there is left the glory of service and in such way helping to perpetuate that race. Then directly addressing the graduates, Judge Parker said:

For so long now that "the memory of man runneth not to the contrary" it has been the custom in addressing graduation classes to pronounce solemn admonitions.

"The Big Joy Event" ELKS MASQUE BALL STATE ARMY Newburgh FRIDAY, DEC. 26 22 - COSTUME PRIZES 2 ORCHESTRAS NUMEROUS NOVELTIES THE MASKED DANCER THE "MUSIC HOUR" THE GRAND MARCH DOORS OPEN 7 p. m. DANCING TO 2 a. m. TICKET—ADMITTING COUPLE $2.00

And I am too conservative, I think, to depart from that custom and indulge in flippancy on so serious an occasion.

So much of the hour as I command therefore I shall spend in making a few common sense remarks to you young ladies about to embark on a beneficent work.

The first matter to which I would solicit your attention is the relationship of doctor and nurse. In that relationship you should never lose sight of the physician's dominance. He is the doctor and you are in charge under him. He is your superior officer and the campaign for health is in each case under his direction and control. Your duty is to both patient and doctor and each requires that you accord the doctor the fullest information and render him most efficient, willing and unquestioning aid. And your support of him should be moral, mental and physical.

You should know thoroughly his diagnosis and proposed course of treatment, and never depart therefrom. It is not essential that you consider the correctness of either diagnosis or the treatment prescribed. It is necessary only that you should conscientiously and exactly adhere to the course he has chosen.

In the printing trade, typesetters are always told: "Follow the copy if it leads you out of the window." That is precisely the measure of loyalty and obedience required of a nurse.

It is but a step further to remind you that a nurse may never criticize the physician or surgeon in charge of a case, nor his diagnosis, course of treatment or any small detail of his own handling of the case, or of his prescription for the handling by others of the details.

In the first place, criticism is no part of the nurse's vocation, and secondly, nobody doubts today that to a very large extent upon fullest confidence being reposed in the doctor, not only by the patient, but by everyone in contact with the patient. Nor is a nurse's sworn duty entirely performed by strict adherence to the doctor's instructions and general rules and methods set out for her. For one thing, every patient requires, and the nurse can and must give, is human sympathy. A sympathy too keen and overmastering is of course a disqualification, but here, as everywhere, there is a triumphant "happy medium." And a nurse who is too business-like and too entirely engrossed in the discharge of bedside duties is not an unimpaired blessing to the man or woman who is "down, but not out" in another than the sense in which that phrase is used by the great Salvation Army.

And now Mr. President, I have the pleasure of presenting to you the class of "1923" for their diplomas.

The honor of awarding the diplomas fell to the lot of Judge Betts, who, in doing so, addressed the graduates, saying:

A recurring commencement anniversary brings another day of graduation to the Nurses' Training School of the City of Kingston Hospital.

The committee of managers having been very successful in securing to address you an orator of national and international reputation, and you particularly should be and I know are very grateful for the time given you by a very busy man. His address cannot but be an inspiration and very helpful to you.

We think your lot was cast in very places when you selected our hospital as a fitting place for qualifying yourselves for your life work.

Thirty years ago at this time the property across the street was a barren, vacant, stony lot. It now contains a large hospital, capable of caring for upwards of ninety patients. We think it is one of the best equipped hospitals of its size in this state and that is saying much for this is a large state filled with humane people, anxious and willing to erect institutions where the sick and the injured may be cured or relieved. That lot also contains now a large, commodious nurses' home, and we have acquired another nurses' home on this side of the street to fittingly accommodate you and your associates.

At the occasion of the formal opening of our hospital, November 27, 1894, in this historical sketch of the labors leading up to the happy event of the trial and the joys of those interested in the then new hospital, which included nearly the entire people of Kingston and Ulster county, the Rev. Father Burtisell, then the vice president and afterwards its president for many years, closed his sketch by saying:

"A feature of the hospital likely to be of much interest is the plan of having in connection with it a training department for nurses, who have learned from constant experience under direction of the physicians and superintendent of the hospital, may thus fit themselves for outside work at the bedside of the infirm where their services may be required."

You, and your predecessors, many of whom are rejoicing with you tonight here, are in finished product of that feature of the hospital plan thus briefly outlined by Dr. Burtisell. It would be in vain for any person to attempt to recount the many blessings that have come to our citizens as a result of this feature of our hospital work. Not only to the hospital, but in the homes of our citizens at many a fevered bedside, the kindly trained, ministering nurses, going out from this hospital, have brought both blessings and restored health. The work that you are about to engage in (and have been engaged in for these years at our hospital) is a trying work, filled with both pleasure and pain. We are quite sure that the high reputation of your alma mater to promote the one and alleviate the other will be carried on by you with the same great success.

We congratulate you ladies for the studies and work and I will be directed of the board of managers proposed by music by the orchestra, after which Dr. A. A. Stern gave the annual report of the training school as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen: We assemble here tonight to greet the class of 23 and to extend to them our best wishes for their success in their chosen profession.

We are celebrating tonight a dual function, first, the passage into history of another year of the training school; and also celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of our school. During this time we have graduated 61 and honor they were pledged.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. J. B. Scully, pastor of St. Mary's Church, after which a reception was tendered the graduates by the Women's Auxiliary of the Hospital. Following the congratulations to the graduates, ice cream, home-made cake and delicious coffee was served, the tea-table decorations being surprisingly artistic, and having a square of black satin laid upon the highly polished surface of the table. Upon that in a unique fruit dish carved out of a large pumpkin, disposed all the fruits of the season, as well as exotic grapes, etc., feathery beet tops surmounting the whole with mahogany-toned effect. Laid flat upon the satin were fern leaves, autumnal striped strawberry leaves, clusters of grapes and tiny oranges; vegetables so polished and grouped as to be exceedingly colorful and effective.

After the serving of refreshments, dancing was enjoyed by the graduates and their friends, to a late hour.

sent you with the diplomas you so well merit.

Miss Dickson, representing the class as its valedictorian, expressed for the class members the honor they felt in having graduated from the Training School for Nurses of the Kingston City Hospital; besides their heartfelt appreciation of the unselfish devotion and helpfulness at all times of the hospital staff and board of managers. Miss Dickson said they all hoped to be increasingly worthy of the hospital from which they had graduated, and to whose honor they were pledged.

At this time before presenting our class to the president for the presentation of their diplomas I ask them to arise and subscribe to the words of the "Florence Nightingale pledge."

I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly to pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous, and will not knowingly take or administer any harmful drug. I will do all in my power to elevate the standard of my profession, and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping, and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my calling. With loyalty I will endeavor to aid the physician in his work and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care.

Hudson Victim of Mutineers.
The first navigators who sailed on voyages of discovery to the new world had no easy task to control the adventurous crews who manned their vessels, says the Detroit News. The troubles that Columbus had to face are well known. Magellan was called upon to put down mutiny among his crew and rebellion among his officers. But to Henry Hudson, discoverer of the river that bears his name, fell the sad fate of being overpowered by mutineers and sent to certain doom at sea. The year following his discovery of Hudson bay and Hudson's strait, his crew rebelled and seized Hudson and eight others, bound them and set them adrift in a small boat on Hudson bay, June 23, 1611. They were never heard from again.

ST. PETER'S, 27; STONE RIDGE, 26

St. Peter's Quintet Hand Stone Ridge a Defeat in Fast and Interesting Game—St. Peter's Juniors Also Won.

Monday evening St. Peter's Hall was the scene of one of the most exciting basketball games staged in this section this season, when the St. Peter's Club defeated Stone Ridge. The game was nip and tuck all the way, first one club and then the other forging to the front. Referee Carl Husta was on the job and both teams played clean, fast basketball. Dolson was the high point getter for Stone Ridge, while Koenig and Thurin were in the van for St. Peter's. Koenig, the fast forward of St. Peter's, was injured by turning on his ankle and will be out of the game for a week or ten days. Next Monday evening St. Peter's will play the newly organized Studebaker Five.

Mrs. Bertha Holcombe.

Mrs. Bertha Holcombe, 26, of Smyrna, Ga., near Atlanta, has reported to the authorities that she and her companion, S. H. Morton, were kidnapped and carried to a lonely wood by a band of masked men, who hogged them both into unconsciousness. Arrests already have been made.

Hungarians Own This Town.
Himlerville, Ky., is one American town founded and inhabited entirely by Hungarian immigrants and their children. It is the seat of a coal-mining enterprise where every resource and process, from the underground veins to the town hall, are owned by the people who dig the coal, says the Detroit News. Every owner of stock in the Himler Coal company must be either an American citizen or one who has taken out his first citizenship papers. Only permanent settlers who know the country and have adopted it as their own, are desired.

Length of Twilight.
Twilight is daylight which continues after sunset. Light is reflected from the upper air till the sun is about 18 degrees below the horizon, but the length of twilight depends a great deal upon the condition of the atmosphere. In low latitudes, mostly on account of the quickness with which the sun traverses the 18 degrees below the horizon and because of the transparency of the atmosphere, there is little twilight. On the other hand, in latitudes higher than 48 degrees, twilight at certain times of the year lasts from sunset to sunrise.

Living Batteries.
None of the mammals, birds or reptiles has the power to discharge electrical currents, but there are several species of insects and fish thus endowed. The electric eel is one of the best known of the "living batteries." It inhabits the rivers and lakes of Brazil and the Guianas. It sometimes attains a length of eight feet. The electric organs are situated in the tail and are composed of numerous cells containing a jelly-like substance.

Had Never Failed.
A man was driving through the country in an automobile without a top. It began to rain and he sought shelter under a farm shed. As it continued to rain for some time he became impatient and said to the farmer: "Do you think it is ever going to clear up?" The farmer looked out and slowly said: "Well, it always has."

Invention of Soap.
It is not known who first invented soap. Its use is of great antiquity. Excavators of Pompeii discovered a soap factory. Soap was used in Italy and Spain in the Eighth century; in France in the Twelfth century, and in England in the Fourteenth or Fifteenth century. Soapmakers arrived in the American colonies on the second ship from England to Jamestown in 1608.

Oh, Such a Name!
Several species of sea urchins occur on our Atlantic coast, says Nature Magazine. The commonest species from New Jersey northward rejoices in one of the longest of all zoological names—Hysteroecystrota drobachicola. The sea urchins feed on vegetable matter and seaweed, which they scrape from the rocks with the sharp teeth of their remarkable dentary apparatus.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

In surrogate's court the last will and testament of Georgia Deudney, late of the city of Kingston, has been admitted to probate. The value of the estate is given as over $5,000. August G. Pratt is named as executor. To the Ladies Aid Society of the Roundout Presbyterian Church is bequeathed a $100 Liberty bond, and a $100 bond to Missionary Society of the Roundout Presbyterian Church, and a $100 Liberty bond to the Kingston City Hospital. All other contents of an envelope in safe deposit box is bequeathed to Carrie V. Pratt, sister of decedent, whose name is on the envelope. The residue and remainder of the estate is devised in nine equal shares to nine nephews. Walter N. Gill is attorney for the petitioner.

GIRL KIDNAPPED IN STREET IN PITTSBURGH

Negro Assaults Another and Posses Are After Him.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Pittsburgh, Dec. 5.—An unidentified girl thought to be an employee of the Heinz Company here, was kidnapped today by three men who dragged her into a closed automobile from a street corner in one of the poorest sections of the city.

Pedestrians, too bewildered to take any action, saw the girl thrown to the floor of the car, and witnessed one of her assailants gagging her as the car sped away.

The girl wore a uniform similar to those worn by Heinz Company employees and a check up at the factory is being made to determine her identity.

The kidnapping followed an attack late last night by a negro on Ethel May Jamison, 15, of Cecil township, near here. The negro seized the girl just after she had alighted from a school bus, took her to an abandoned stone quarry, where he attacked and beat her.

The girl wandered to her home early today and when word of the attack spread, posses of armed citizens bent on a lynch party started scouring the countryside. Meanwhile police arrested a negro answering the description of the girl's assailant.

The girl's condition is serious.

TUCKER BOY AND HIS ELDERLY BRIDE DISAPPEAR

By Telegram to The Freeman. Ridgefield Park, N. J., Dec. 5.—Burton S. Tucker, the 16 year old husband and his spouse of forty six, Mrs. Susan Simpson Tucker, who have been honeymooning here, have disappeared. It was learned today.

They have gone to some "secret love nest." It was stated by Mrs. J. J. McCabe, with whom the newlyweds were living, Burton, Mrs. McCabe said, was "terribly bored by all this publicity," and the talk of prosecution because of his marriage, and decided to escape from it all. They departed in Mrs. Tucker's luxurious limousine.

The marriage probably will be the subject of grand jury investigation, assistant prosecutor Alysus McMahon of Jersey City stated. He said he expected to ask the grand jury next week for the indictment of four or five persons on charges of perjury and conspiracy to violate the New Jersey marriage laws.

Pierce-Ewel.

Edward Pierce of East Kingston and Miss Justina Ewel of No. 18 Hooker street, this city, were united in marriage Monday evening at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Thomas R. Larkin of St. Colman's Church, East Kingston. Miss Florence Pierce, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Fred Ewel, a brother of the bride, was best man. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pierce are very popular and have the well wishes of a host of friends. They will reside in East Kingston. The bride was the recipient of a large number of useful, artistic and valuable wedding gifts.

Lowell Club.

On Tuesday the Lowell Club met with Mrs. Baston. Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. Edwards gave interesting reports of the recent State Federation convention. This club passed a resolution endorsing and offering to support the movement to secure a better class of moving pictures for the children. The paper for the day, on "Jacob Hill," was admirably given by Mrs. T. D. Lewis after which Miss Martha Fuller led a round table on "Thorwaldsen, Anderson, Countess Cyllembourg, Ehrensvard." The afternoon's program closed with a reading, "Hans Christian Anderson," by Mrs. Delaplane. Next Tuesday the club will meet with Miss Fuller.

HILLS, ITS FIRST PRESIDENT, VISITS ROTARY

Boys' Work of Club Entails Much Discussion.

Rotary had another profitable and enjoyable program at its luncheon on Wednesday, not the least part of which was a welcome to Willis Hills of Albany, charter member and first president of the Kingston Rotary Club and still an honorary member.

Other visitors were Ernest Kendall of Poughkeepsie, Mr. Coe of Hartford and Dr. Thayer of Napamuch.

Plans for future boys' work was discussed at great length and so much remained undiscussed at the time for closing that it was resolved to continue the discussion at the next meeting.

INSPECTION OF PROPOSED ROSENDALE BANK EXPECTED.

Edward M. Murphy, chairman of the Rosendale Bank committee, was granted an interview with the state superintendent of banks Tuesday morning in Manhattan through the courtesy of George B. Smythe, of the Chase National Bank, of New York. Residents can now look for a representative of the banking department visiting Rosendale at an early date to pass upon the application for a charter. If accepted, the bank will open early in the new year.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 5.—Aside from bullish demonstrations in a number of railroad stocks and wide movements in a few industrial shares of the second rank, the forenoon trading on the stock exchange today furnished little of importance. Stocks developed some strength at the opening. Buying initiative, however, soon spent its force and after losing its original gain the industrial group turned extremely dull.

Writing in Baffin Land.

The natives of Baffin Land had no system of writing until recently, when a Canadian missionary invented for their benefit a species of phonetic writing. Each character represents a syllable, hence no spelling is required. This curiously simple system was quickly mastered by the Baffin Landers, who now freely write letters to their friends and hand them over for delivery to any one taking a journey in the desired direction. The letters always reach their destination, one way or another, for the postman invariably reads them at his first sleeping place. In this way, if the letter itself happens to get lost the carrier delivers the message by word of mouth.

Howe Condemns Himself.

What a lot of time I waste in advising others! And how I neglect myself! You may say you are sufficiently selfish; that you do not neglect yourself. How about that bad stomach? How about the indigestion you take? Both indicate the grossest neglect of yourself. How about that debt you owe, which keeps you worrying at night, when you should be asleep and recovering your energy? That debt probably represents neglect of yourself. How about that foolish action that causes you humiliation? You are no better than I am—and I am a fool. —Ed Howe's Monthly.

Hanged Men for Burglary.

Only 100 years ago men were hanged for burglary in the cultured city of Boston. The Detroit News discovers, May 6, 1785, William Scott and Thomas Archibald were hanged for burglary on Boston common. The Supreme Judicial court September 9, 1787, sentenced one burglar to be hanged; five female thieves and four males to be whipped; two big thieves to sit on the gallows; one counterfeiter to stand in pillory and have his right ear cut off. November 22 John Shean was hanged on the common for burglary of the house of Mr. Elliott.

Legendary City.

Camelot is a legendary city in Great Britain, famous in the time of King Arthur. Brewer, in his Reader's Handbook, says that there are two Camelots—the one referred to in King Lear being in Cornwall, and the one of Arthurian renown in Winchester, where visitors are still shown certain large enclosures once belonging to King Arthur's palace. In some places, even in Arthurian romance, Camelot seems the city on the Camel, in Cornwall. Thus, when Sir Tristram tells Tintagel to go to Ireland, a tempest "drove him back to Camelot."

Not to Be Trusted.

A hired man left a farm near Ipswich, Mich., taking a horse, a buggy, 75 chickens, 20 jars of canned fruit, one raincoat, one pair of rubber boots, five bushels of potatoes, one-half bushel of onions, two shirts, one pair of pants, one revolver, 15 gunny sacks, one pair of shoes, one phonograph and 80 records. In addition, the owner intimates, this hired man is not a fellow who can be trusted.

Isle of Pines.

The Isle of Pines, south of Cuba, gets its name from its forests of pino, which exist there at a lower altitude than anywhere else in the tropics. The island is almost a quarter the size of Porto Rico, and has a resident population of about 7,000. The thermometer seldom registers higher than 80 degrees or lower than 60 degrees.

Crown Rust of Oats Spread by Buckthorn

Ailment Blamed on Hedge and Ornamental Plants.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Crown rust of oats is spread through certain species of buckthorn commonly grown as hedge and ornamental plants in some sections of the United States, according to co-operative investigations conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, the Iowa experiment station, and other co-operators. An epidemic at Hinton, Iowa, caused by an infection from a 520-rod hedge, was so severe in 1921 that the oats in the adjoining fields were not harvested.

The part that these species of buckthorn play in the spread of this disease has been studied for several years. A bulletin discussing the findings of the investigators has just been issued by the United States Department of Agriculture as Department Bulletin 1162, and is now available to those interested in the subject.

The bulletin is of a technical nature, discussing the relative importance of the different species of buckthorn and citing instances of damage which furnish conclusive evidence of the fact that this shrub is responsible for the harboring and spread of crown rust infection. A copy of the bulletin may be secured from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., while the supply lasts.

Obtain Good Results in Control of Peach Borer

Very satisfactory results have been obtained in the control of the peach borer in the Southern states by the application of paradichlorobenzene, states the United States Department of Agriculture. Interest in the use of this material has increased widely. From present indications it looks as though 500,000 pounds of paradichlorobenzene will be used around peach trees in the Southeast this year for the control of the peach borer. Most of this amount will be used in Georgia, where a large percentage of the commercial peach growers apply the chemical. Last season about 250,000 pounds were used in the same area. Experiments to date indicate that it is safe to use the chemical, three-fourths to one ounce per tree, on trees three years of age and over. Heretofore recommendations have been limited to trees six years of age and over.

Give Vegetable Garden a Thorough Cleaning Up

Much of the success of next year's vegetable garden depends on cleaning up the trash left from this year's crops, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Insects and disease spores live over the winter in stalks, vines and stubble. Weeds and vegetable debris should be raked into piles and burned or carried off as soon as it is convenient to do so. Pieces of cabbage, carrots, potatoes and other vegetables which have been left on the ground in the harvest should be raked up and destroyed to avoid attracting insects and rabbits. The rabbits, tempted by these tidbits, may remain to bark the fruit trees and damage bushes. Time given to this work in the fall will be well repaid in the spring and summer.

Buttermilk Paint Good for All Exterior Work

A very good wash for exterior work is made by mixing three pounds of Portland cement in one gallon of buttermilk. Add such coloring as is desired. This paint must be stirred frequently to prevent the cement from settling and hardening, and it should be used as soon as possible. It will dry within six hours. It is a good weather and water resistant and is sometimes used to cover and protect the cuts on trees that have been pruned. For such use, a larger proportion of cement can be used to advantage.

It is estimated that one gallon of whitewash will cover 270 square feet of plaster; 150 square feet of brick or 225 square feet of wood, and a man should be able to put on nearly one gallon per hour.

Many Factors Determine Success in Hog Raising

Success in the hog business depends upon many factors but the two outstanding ones are the number of pigs farrowed per sow and the number of pigs raised per sow. The farmer who keeps sows that farrow large litters and saves a high percentage of pigs, cuts down the cost of raising pork. It is not necessary for him to carry a large number of sows through the winter to be assured of a pig crop, for he will raise as many pigs from ten sows as the man with the poorer sows and the greater pig losses will raise from fifteen.

Guard Against Fire in Orchard in Grass Crops

Where alfalfa, hay or straw is being produced in the orchard, care should be taken to plow fire lines and to take such steps that fire cannot run freely through the orchard. A large number of fine orchards are ruined annually by fire catching in the stubble, dried up alfalfa and similar material. A rapid hot fire is sufficient to practically ruin the trees.

These Days.

You know how it was in the old days. It's different now. Father in these times always asks: "Young man, can you support my daughter in a style to which she has never previously been accustomed?"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

GREAT WALL OF CHINA

The Great Wall at Kou Pei K'ou.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

China's famous Great Wall is the only man-made feature of the earth, so say astronomers, that could be seen from the moon. Western peoples have dug their Panama and Suez canals, infinitely more useful, and have built their great cities whose towers pierce the skies; but all would be non-existent to a moon-man, if this estimate be true, while the work pushed through by an almost forgotten Asiatic ruler, two thousand years ago alone would be capable of catching his attention.

Today the idea of the protection of a vast country by a wall seems fantastic. But such an idea was not ridiculous in an era when bows and arrows and twisted pikes were the weapons of invaders. Then earth and stone were real deterrents (for artillery was unknown) against armies that were simply cavalry hordes.

Now much of the Great Wall has fallen into ruins. Yet, despite its decay, the huge rampart remains a magnificent monument, which leaves a powerful impression on even the most frivolous minds. Once seen, it can never be forgotten. But imagination fails to grasp this remarkable structure as a whole for the "Wan-chang-cheng," or Myriad Li Wall, as the Chinese call it, is about 1,250 miles long in a straight line, while its turnings and windings increase it to almost 2,000 miles. This means that it would stretch from Portugal to Naples or from Philadelphia to Topeka, on nearly the same latitude.

One end of the wall rises out of the sea near Shanhaikwan. When it was built China had nothing to fear from enemies with powerful fleets, so it was obviously unnecessary to erect a barrier along the coast, where the ocean

Woodstone.

Woodstone is the name of a material made of sawdust mixed with magnesia cement and compressed under enormous pressure. This woodstone is very like ordinary wood, save that it has no grain. It is made in planks which can be cut with a saw and planed, and has the advantage of not being inflammable.

50,000 MEN NEEDED TO FILL GAPS IN U. S. ARMYStringent Entrance Requirements
Keep Down Enlistments.

Washington.—Reductions in the commissioned and enlisted strength of the army resulting from congressional action have brought two extremely difficult problems to War department chiefs for solutions that have not been found. Maj. Gen. Robert C. Davis, adjutant general of the army, declared in his annual report made public here.

"The effect of the enforced reduction in the commissioned strength," he said, "has been far-reaching. It has been found impossible to carry into anything like full effect the program for national defense included in the national defense act approved June 4, 1920."

Regarding the enlisted strength of the army, the report said:

"The small pay of the recruit and the remarkably high wages paid for labor of all kinds throughout the United States have greatly discouraged enlistment, but since the close of the fiscal year another obstacle has arisen equally serious. Is the act making appropriations for the War department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, the following appears:

"That no part of the funds herein appropriated shall be utilized for recruiting or enlistment, unless the applicant furnishes a birth certificate or the affidavit of two disinterested witnesses showing such applicant for enlistment to be twenty-one years of age."

"For many of the men who seek to join the army it is very difficult, if not impossible, to furnish the required evidence of their age, and they are prone to make no effort to obtain it. Others, plainly over twenty-one, resent the imputation that their word is not good and angrily give up the idea of enlistment."

"To maintain the army at its reduced strength of 125,000, it is necessary before January 1, 1924, to enlist and re-enlist about 50,000 men, and approximately 24,000 between January 1 and June 30, 1924."

Signs of Hard Winter.

He has his view on the following observations:

Squirrels have stored away more nuts than usual.

The bark of trees is thicker.

Cornhusks are more sturdy.

Insects are digging their holes in the ground weeks earlier than usual.

Migratory birds, such as wild geese and ducks, are winging their way South about a month ahead of schedule.

Fur-bearing animals have much heavier coats this year than usual and are digging their dens deeper into the ground.

Capital School Children

Not Posted on History

Washington.—School children of the capital were recently shown astonishingly ignorant of salient points in American history. Completion of the tabulation of replies from 1,170 pupils of the seventh and eighth grade classes disclosed that only 56.2 per cent knew Abraham Lincoln was the author of the emancipation proclamation.

The acts of Jefferson and Admiral Dewey were best known, 65 per cent giving the correct answers for those two. The total list of names and the numbers of pupils able to designate their places in history, follow:

Jefferson, 65 per cent; Dewey, 65 per cent; Roosevelt, 58.4 per cent; Lincoln, 56.2 per cent; Perry, 51.4 per cent; Grant, 40.5 per cent; Jackson, 40 per cent; Houston, 38.6 per cent; Hamilton, 31.7 per cent; Meade, 25.3 per cent; Douglas, 24.1 per cent; Deatur, 23.4 per cent; Greene, 21.2 per cent; Taylor, 18.8 per cent.
